Discoveries of Coins, Glass and other Antiquities in Ancient Syria.

It is said that the secret of glass manufacture was discovered by the Egyptians over 2500 years B.C. According to Pliny the process of manufacture of glass was discovered by the Tyrians on the shores of the River Belus, called now Ned N. near Acre, a place situated south of Tyre, about nine hours by horseback. Pliny says that some Phenician sailors trading in saltpeter having gone ashore for the purpose of cooking their dinner and not finding any stones upon which to build a hearth, improvised one of lumps of saltpeter which they brought from their ship, and when the meal was over they found among the ashes a semi opaque, dull shining mass, the result of the fusion of the saltpeter and sand, which proved to be glass.

The historian is therefore contradicted by the modern sciences and though he does not seem to be entirely mistaken in his story because Phenicia in the earliest periods was during many centuries under the yoke of Egypt and the finding of glass in Pharaohs' tombs from the twenty fifth century B.C. does not prove that glass in its rude state was not made on the southern shores of Syria. It would seem to be more reasonable to attribute the discovery of glass making to a maritime nation credited among other discoveries and inventions with the addition of sails to ships, hitherto dependent on oars, an invention that enabled them to make longer voyages and to extend their trade with the manufacture of a rich dye—the world-famous Tyrian people—of waters, with the making of wine and other inventions, rather than to the Egyptians.

Whether the incident related by Pliny is true or not and whether the process of making glass was first discovered in Egypt or somewhere else it is certain that the Phenicians excelled in the manufacture of glass and most of the glass came from Syria.

NOTES ON THE

EARLIEST THALER AND HALF THALER OF TYROL

DATED 1484.

By CHARLES N. SCHMALL, New York.

In his work on the "Coinage of the European Continent," London 1893, William Carew Hazlitt says, page 16: "Austria is entitled to the honor of having produced the earliest dated thalers." In the year 1884 the Vienna Numismatic Society (Wiener Numismatische Gesellschaft), issued a souvenir thaler celebrating the four-hundredth anniversary of the striking of the first dollar-sized silver pieces in Tyrol. This commemorative piece is by A. Scharff and bears the portrait of the Archduke Sigismund, copied from his famous thaler dated 1484, and that of the late Austrian Emperor, Francis Joseph I (1848-1916).

The appearance of this jubilee piece under the auspices and sponsorship of so distinguished a body of eminent numismatic savants definitely established the position of the Tyrol dickthaler of 1484 as the first silver thaler of the world. It settled also the questions concerning the status, origin, classification, and possible priority of the following six coins, which purport to bear earlier dates.

I. The thaler of Bingen dated 1438, bearing the title of Dietrich I., Schenk von Erbach, Archbishop of Mains (1434-59). This piece has been shown to be a fraudulent production from the hand of the forger Becker. It may have been created with the intention of claiming for this town the distinction of having issued the earliest thaler. The evidence against its antheuticity is decisive. (Cappe 636; Schuithess-Rechberg 3488; Prinz Alexander 160.)

A New Departure!

Discoveries of Coins, Glass and other Antiquities in Ancient Syria.

It is said that the secret of glass making was discovered by the Egyptians over 2500 years B.C. According to Pliny the process of manufacture of glass was discovered by the Tyrians on the shores of the River Belus (called now Nahr-Nemeh) near Acre, a place situated south of Tyre about nine hours by horseback. The historian is therefore entirely mistaken in his story, although he does not seem to be entirely mistaken in his story, although he does not seem to be entirely mistaken in his story. Phoenicia in the earliest periods was famous for its glass, and the finding of glass on the Phoenician coast, like that on the lake of Egypt and the finding of glass in Phoenician tombs from the twenty-fifth century B.C., does not prove that glass in its primitive state was not made on the southern shores of Syria. It would seem to be more reasonable to attribute the discovery of glass-making to a maritime nation credited among other discoveries and inventions with the addition of sails to ships, hitherto dependent on oars, an invention that enabled them to make longer voyages and to extend their trade, with the manufacture of a rich dye—the world famous Tyrian purple—obtained from the murex, a species of shell fish that abounded in their waters, with the making of wine and other ingenious crafts than to the Egyptians.

Whether the mention related by Pliny is true or not, and whether the process of making glass was first discovered in Egypt or somewhere else, it is certain that the Phoenicians excelled in the manufacture of glass and most of the glass came from Syria.

Numismatology

Numismatology, (from Greek word, a coin discourse), is that branch of historical science which treats on coins and medals. The study of numismatology, especially of ancient coins and medals, is of importance in illustrating the history, chronology, geography, mythology, as well as the manners and customs of the states of the past. The historical evidence which they afford is superior to every other, because their testimony is contemporaneous; and unlike the works of ancient authors, they are not liable to be corrupted by the negligence of transcribers.

Coins and medals also afford us a pretty certain criterion of the progress of the fine arts at different periods and among various nations. Thus we are enabled to determine, not only from historical records, but likewise from an examination of ancient coins, that the golden age of the arts in Greece commenced about the time of Philip II of Macedon, that it continued under the reign of his son, Alexander the Great, and maintained itself for a considerable period under his successors.

Further, history gives us little information with respect to the state of the arts in several ancient countries, such as Greece, and Sicily, while with regard to others, such as Bolotia, Bithynia etc., historical testimony seems to deny them all pretension to taste. But we know from existing monuments, that in Great Greece and Sicily the arts must have flourished in a very high degree, for even their coins in most common use are executed in a style of singular beauty.

From the same source we learn that the natives of Bolotia and Bithynia, as well as the more celebrated states of Greece, possessed a fine feeling of all that is beautiful in art.

But this taste prevailed not merely in the larger cities of Greece, where it might be fostered by wealth and luxury; it extended to their remotest colonies, and their most insignificant communities. How unimportant, for example, is the history of Sybarita, one of the smallest towns in Crete! Yet the coins struck there will stand a comparison with the finest that ever were executed in Greece. The same may be said of the Sonian colony which established itself in Gaul, and founded the town of Marseilles; of Cyreneans in Africa, and of the Macedonian colony which Alexander the Great left behind him in Bactriana.

After the conquest of Greece by the Romans, and the transference of its treasures to Rome, the arts

published by
WAYTE RAYMOND, INC.,
DEPARTMENT OF CLASSICAL AND FOREIGN COINS

NUMBER ONE FEBRUARY, 1936

Announcement

This publication will be sent you every once in awhile with our compliments. It is our purpose to make it more than a price list. We are going to tell the stories and incidents connected with the many interesting coins you may have, or wish to have in your collection.

Many inexpensive coins of great historical importance are neglected by collectors in America. We believe the reason for this neglect is chiefly because the associated stories seldom appear in print. They are hidden away in books that are expensive if not altogether impossible to obtain. Or in books written in a foreign language that is not easily translated by the average collector. It is not our intention to publicize coins that are beyond the reach of most collectors. In our opinion, a tetradrachm of Alexander the Great or an antoninianus of Diocletianus are coins worthy of a place in any collection. These, and many other inexpensive coins of similar historical importance will be given recognition in following issues.

If Coin Topics helps you in forming a really interesting cabinet of coins we will consider our efforts worthwhile.

We would appreciate knowing your opinion of our form of advertising. An occasional comment or order will keep you on our regular mailing list.

Mithradates The Great B.C. 120-63

Few rulers have been more worthy of the epithet "Great" than was Mithradates VI. At the age of eleven he succeeded his father as King of Pontus. Alarmed at the attempts made upon his life by his mother he fled to the mountains and was for many years a hunter. In III B.C. he returned to Sinope, established himself on the throne and turned to conquest. He rapidly overran Galatia, Phrygia and Asia, defeated the Roman armies and ordered a general massacre of the Romans in Asia.

Like most remarkable rulers he struck coins of much merit. The one illustrated above was struck in the year 75 B.C. It is supposed to have been copied from a silver statue mentioned by Pliny. The hair blown back by the wind, indicates that the original may have been either an equestrian or that of a charioteer. It is the best portrait coin of that period and one of the most interesting of all times. We have in stock several specimens in quite fine condition.

Spanish American Gold Coins

By WAYTE RAYMOND

The articles prepared by Mr. Raymond and published in the JOURNAL are now obtainable in book form. Many new illustrations have been added showing as far as is known every type of Spanish American gold coins. The coinage tables form each mint are arranged in a manner that will permit easy and ready reference by the student. Mr. Howland Wood of the American Numismatic Society, has written in a very interesting manner a general introduction to the work and introductory chapters to each of the eight mints. Mr. Wood's histories of the mints are of special interest as they tell not only the essential details but give a short compact historical sketch of each country and ruler. He has also included in the FOREWORD a table listing all the American mints under Spain, giving the different mint marks and the dates during which the mints were in operation.

Mr. Raymond has been interested in this series for nearly twenty years and during the last five has spent much time and effort accumulating information for this book.

In size it is 6 by 9 inches. Bound in the finest library cloth and beautifully illustrated in half-tones.

Price—$2.00 Postpaid

"The Triumph of the Individual over Enviorment and Circumstances"

THERE IS SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE IN

THE HOBBY REPORTER

TOM MOORE, Publisher Penacook, New Hampshire

RIGHT NOW THE OUTSTANDING MAGAZINE...THE STANDARD OF ACCEPTANCE FOR HOBBY AND MAILORDER ENTERPRISES

Vol. 1 March - April, 1946 No. 2

A Hobby!

IT STARTS THIS WAY...

Enterprise is the spirit putting what the mind developes into action. Call it what you will...Hobby or Enterprise. If there were no Hobby there would be no Enterprise, and if there were no Enterprise there would be no Hobby, and we Americans have a Hobby of some kind.

Following Enterprise comes the pride of accomplishment which points directly to progress. Hence, an idea coming to you through The Hobby Reporter will enable you to cash in with profit in your pocket because The Hobby Reporter is an all family magazine and is followed by more eyes than any other hobby magazine.

Right now the American people are in a "show me" mood and you can gain worthwhile advantage by placing your advertisement in The Hobby Reporter which takes your sales message into the homes and work shops of Hobby minded men and women everywhere.

Maybe you have never used The Hobby Reporter, then you have missed a worthwhile deal for making money. That's our aim, to serve our advertisers and help them to make money.

You can hardly pass up your chance to evaluate your advertising dollar. Maybe you are overlooking how we blend Hobby and Mailorder news reporting with your sales messages and that is how we attract buyers with the spendable dollar.

The present market is ripe and don't overlook the thousands of newcomers who are bound to be interested in your advertisement in The Hobby Reporter. There is no question about it helping you to make a profit.

We have a definite program and we are geared for clear thinking for the advancement and good will of our advertisers and subscribers. We can help you more than you realize and will never know until you try.

ENJOY THE REWARD OF BEING RIGHT!

THE NUMISMATIC DEALERS DIGEST/MONTHLY

With this issue we begin our Numismatic Digest. Now what find a postcard with each issue, please fill in the information requested and mail it as soon as it is available. DO NOT write your name. We do not want to know who has the coins. Every week, we will report the results and in a short while we hope to give to you a good idea of the number of the dealers whose are for sale, in dealers' names. PLEASE ...Operate.....

The Convention committee has released the price schedule for rate rooms at the Hotel Statler, Buffalo, New York. Rates for one person range from $3.5 to $6.00 per day. Double - from $5.5 to $8.5 ... and so on to $12.00.

We cannot impress you too much with the necessity of making early reservations. Last year we made our reservation early in March and had a beautiful room at the convention hotel. Many people we know waited and found that they were located at a hotel far removed from the convention headquarters and many had to double up. This year will be no exception.

As a Dealer, the importance of having a Base on the Course at the Convention is a matter of good business. It gives the collector and the dealer a chance to meet and get acquainted. The display of items from your stock creates interest and sales. Most dealers can vouch for the great amount of sales made at the Conventions and it gets better every year. As a Dealer, we had two cases at the Davenport Convention and were more than satisfied with the results. Look for us this year, also.

For reservations of the Bourse cases, write to:

400 STATLER HOTEL
BUFFALO 3, NEW YORK

The price of each case is $15.00 and includes Police Protection day and night but not insurance.

Introducing

It is unusual to find a woman who is the owner and manager of a full line coin business.

THE EMERGENCY MONEY COLLECTOR

WE BEG TO REPORT

The first issue has been sent to emergency money collectors the world over, and the verdict has been "The Emergency Money Collector" is what we have needed for a long time. Beyond the many fine articles we have received along with subscriptions and advertisements we received a check with the second issue.

We find a number of things to comment on at this time, some of minor importance being as follows:

More contributions are needed. Your letters express what you like, although he has now begun a series on World War II money. That will run through the next several issues. Send in those contributions NOW—any kind of emergency money. They are sorely needed.

It has been necessary to raise the advertising rates. We regret this very much but the rates given on our first issue were merely introductory rates good only until May 1, 1948, and were offered as an inducement to get things started. The rates were considerably below actual printing costs for the space used so naturally they must be raised now while we have only printing costs. Even the prices given now are not profit making but are stated to only first issue, we are not out to make large profits on this venture—we do we wish to lose money. So I am sure all will agree that having the ad rates practically the same as actual printing and paper costs is quite fair to all concerned. Even at the new prices, advertisers receive a good bargain because "The Emergency Money Collector" goes only to a specialized list of emergency money collectors, thus assuring you of more interest in your advertising copy on emergency money. Send in your ad today and prove for yourself that this is true.

Three new departments have been added. The Question Box, I Want to Buy and Exchange Dept. The first issues the purpose of answering questions on emergency money that readers may have while the other two offer [illegible]

Our Auction Sale—our 14th, ends a very successful season. Starting in August 1948 with the ANA Sale in Boston, Mass. and ending with this sale in June 1949, we will have completed 7 separate sales, embodying 16 sessions selling a total of 11,920 lots.

This record we believe is outstanding in the field of numismatics today. Despite the words of Al Smith, "LET'S LOOK AT THE RECORD" and they consider letting us sell your coins.

THE MASSAVE Collection we mentioned several months ago is now in our possession. The boys at the Customs were very cooperative but I mite Sammy has his rules and regulations. Now that I have this collection, what am I going to do with it? There are over 900 different items, mostly the collection of Frederick the Great. A few of the pieces have as many as 2 diamonds and 2 rubies.

Kosoff's

COIN BULLETIN

Published by A. KOSOFF, P. O. Box 456, Encino, California, for Interested Collectors.
Phone STate 4-5005

NUMBER 1 SEPTEMBER 1954

WE HOPE YOU LIKE US

IT'S been just about a year and a half since I last edited such a periodical. Since the same mailing list is being used, most of you will remember the Numismatic Gallery Monthly. Your letters indicated that you liked it—many offered to subscribe to it, and we enjoyed putting it out.

Unfortunately the pressure of other affairs prevented a regular release and it was with regret that it was discontinued in April, 1953. Now I hope to take up the regular periodic release of KOSOFF'S COIN BULLETIN.

You are invited to criticize, suggest, buy, sell, trade, or what have you. Interesting articles, news items, etc., pertaining to numismatics or numismatic personalities are welcome and will be published as space permits. We hope you like us.

CARSON CITY COINAGE

A splendid collection of the silver coins of the Carson City Mint is being marketed by the Numismatic Gallery. If your wants include CC coins—send us your list.

• A FEW INTERESTING ITEMS

SHULTZ & CO. $5.00 gold 1851. Liberty head, SHULTS & C O. on coronet, date below/Eagle. PURE CALIFORNIA GOLD. FIVE D. Very good to fine, very rare. Lists at $1000.00 in Guide book and $1,200.00 in Raymonds. Wire for this one—if you recognize a real buy 675.00

$20.00 GOLD. 1873 purchased as a proof may be it was—once, it does have a lot of lustre 100.00

Counterstamped half dollar of 1824 Obverse with 15 mm. counter-stamp bust of Washington and GEORGE WASHINGTON above. Reverse, Bust of La Fayette with GENERAL LA FAYETTE and 1824 below.

Counterstamped Silver Dollar of 1799. Benjamin Franklin counterstamp.

(Quotations on above 2 lots on request)

TERRITORIAL PATTERN. Sierra Nevada Mining Co. $2.50 in Silver. 1850. Not very choice but undoubtedly very rare as no coinage by this company is known. From the B. G. Johnson Estate 175.00

MASS. and CALIF. FIVE D. 1849—in silver. Fairly common in copper but scarce in silver. f. 150.00

CINN. MINING & TRADING CO. 5 Dollars 1849, Copper. Planchet slightly clipped. v.g. Very rare 200.00

OREGON TERRITORY. 1849. $10.00 White metal. v.g. Rare 100.00

BALDWIN & CO. $10.00 Cowboy, White metal. Uncir. 25.00
Same in Silver, very rare 150.00

TRIAL PIECE. 1836 Half Dollar on octagonal, white metal planchet. Uniface, obverse only 70.00

RUSSIA. 1 Rouble 1762. Catherine the Great. x.f. 6.00

• HALF DISME

1792. Oft referred to as the first U. S. Coin, this historic specimen is in constant demand. Made from Washington's personal silver, this half disme has a female head r. (said to be Martha Washington). An eagle on reverse. The coin is about fine-very fine. Truly good value.

$160.00

LOT DIMES 1824-1913, many dates and mints, not too many duplicates. About 180 pieces, enveloped. Some poor, many fine. One lot only—as is—no return on this lot. $32.50

$321.50

THE GOVERNMENT'S GOLDEN SEARCH

By Lamont Cordell

Bewildered on the crying vowels of eight unhappy, American numismatists, giving them [illegible] somewhat meager comfort in connection with the phrase, "Coins to have had and look for," is some tool, each having possessed a rare coin entry and being disgusted of it through no fault of their own.

The scene and time of this unique occurrence dates back to the Philadelphia mint in 1933, where this producer of fine coins had just finished striking off nearly a half million of $20 gold pieces, the sight of which would pop the eyes of even the most unworldly hermit. Before these coins were put into circulation, Congress issued the Gold Reserve Act in March, 1934, demanding that all owners or hoarders of gold turn in their coins for paper and silver currency. Thus this shining pile of gold specie was kept from the public and melted down into bullion, that is all but nine coins. Hinter on to the scene a shadowy character still at large as mysterious that even the F. B. I. doesn't know him, and through some clever manipulation or ledgermain spirited away the now renowned double-eagles out of the best guarded vaults in the world.

Ten years rolled away, and to the astonishment of Secret Service operators, they discovered that 1933 double eagle was being offered at a New York auction. Somewhat flabergasted at this state of affairs, they swooped down on the owner of this rare coin, seized it and questioned the collector. The numismatist stated he had purchased the coin seven years previous and paid in the neighborhood of $1300 for it from a dealer.

Warming up to their work, the Secret Service men eagerly followed hot and cold leads, and after a few months of expert sleuthing found six more of the $20 gold pieces in the hands of other collectors who had paid lady sums ranging from $500 to $1700 apiece for them. Locating a Philadelphia dealer who had sold the eighth double eagles, the government agents confronted a Memphis manufacturer with evidence that he possessed U. S. property illegally. At his refusal to give up such a treasure, the hunters [illegible]department brought suit against him, and won the case on the grounds that the gold eagle was never issued as money and still belonged to the Mint. The Secret Service still holds fond hopes of getting back the ninth coin, though their efforts to date are nil. Their only hope is that this clever smuggler has retired for life.

HAND MONEY

Delvers into the history of Numismatics come across strange and unusual items in their pursuit of knowledge, and none perhaps is more fascinatingly curious as that used by the ancient American Indian. Pieces of human bones such as small parts of the skull, thighs, and finger bones were employed as commen barter by some tribes of the western plains.

The redskins of that period were not in the least squeamish about accepting a handful of fingers for the purchase of a basket of corn or something of similar value.

THE MIDAS TOUCH

About sixteen years ago the government transferred about two billions in gold bullion from the San Francisco to the Denver mint using mail bags exclusively for transporting this valuable metal. One out of every five bags were worn out at the end of the trip. The gold bricks, about the size of regular building bricks, with their heavy bulk of about thirty pounds each, had knife sharp corners that sliced deep holes in the heavy cloth.

After the job was completed, all the mail bags were burned by the treasury, and close to $50,000 worth of gold was recovered as it melted out of them. Articles of clothing coming in heavy rubbing contact with the soft gold potency retained enough of the precious stuff to pay each and every worker that handled it an expensive mend.

PUTTING THE DOUBLE O ON COIN CLIPPERS

Up until the sixteenth century the clipping of coins had become the major problem of most of the mints throughout Europe. Thus it was necessary for the moneyers to find an effective means to prevent this disastrous evil, and machinery was devised to combat it.

Leonardo da Vinci, versatile inventor as ever history produced, created a mechanical device that struck out perfect round planchets uniform in weight and size. France shortly later purchased a screw press from Germany, and employed the power of mill to run the machinery that produced the coins. These they named monnaie du moulin, or "mill money." As an added precaution against clipping, besides inscriptions in raised letters, were the introduction of the metal ring by which the blank was halted from spreading.

But despite this new advance in production of money, the old-fashioned minters of France threw their political weight against machinery, and obtained a royal edict banning for some time the coining by mill in the country.

MIDWEST COIN COLLECTORS TRADING POST

Published From Time to Time Each Month by ROBERT L. McKEENAN at Fort Madison, Iowa

FORT MADISON

VOLUME 2-9 | Subscription per year $1.00 | February 1, 1957

FROM THE DESK OF "SLIMS PICKS"

I attended the January meeting of the Los Angeles Coin Club, they are still growing, every meeting is almost a convention. 160 were present, they always have an auction of over 100 lots, and ribbon awards for displays which are always interesting. Also 2 horse dealers, they pay for their tables. Then then have outstanding speakers - I say outstanding because at this meeting it was Charles M. Johnson of Long Beach, California. He spoke of currency from fractional on up, U was very convincing that he "knows his money" and he answered all questions put to him, through his talk I learned that none of our currency has a duplicate serial number and that the serial numbers with a star in front represents a duplicate of a bill that is known to have been retryed.

I also heard at that meeting the Numismatic Association of Southern California at their convention in Los Angeles, February 22nd are going to have on display a whole flock of $50, and $100, Makes me think of that old song "Lovely to look at", do———"

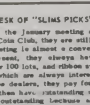

Slim

EDITORIAL

This month I wish to Salute the Coin Collectors of California. For the state of California has the highest number of subscribers to this publication. I would like also to say many, many thanks to C. A. Slim Dember, for his untiring effort in getting subscriptions that made California the TOP state. Again thanks Slim. Second place goes to Iowa and Penna. and third place to New York, with Ohio running in fourth place. We also have quite a number of subscribers in Canada and in time we will list the top provinces.

Haven't much time to chat this month as I am too busy shoveling coal in the furnace. This is the first winter we have had such cold readings since 1948, and along with the cold we are also having our share of the snow for a change. Oh well along in July we will have forgotten about it and will be complaining of the other extreme. (heat) If this cold wave continues the Numismatic Association of Southern California convention in Los Angeles this month should be a huge success, with coin collectors from the east and midwest. I shall not be one of the fortunate.

NUMISMATIC ODDITIES

By David Crist

Small copper plates looking somewhat on the order of the illustration was once used as currency by the Haidi Indians in Alaska.

ITS A FACT. . . Abalone Shells were once used for money in Sacramento California.

DID YOU KNOW??? That in Ancient Mexico Carved Stone Axe Heads were a medium of exchange??

GUEST WRITER OF THE MONTH—George H. Roberts of Oceanside, California. He offers us this bit of Numismatic information-

DID YOU KNOW??? That a Coin without any inscription is called an "ANEPIGRAPHIC Coin", and the inscription found along the edge of some coins is called "NURLING".

A tip of the Derby to Mr. Roberts for his fine oddities. I still need more, and I am sure that you have some little oddity that you would like to share with the rest of us collectors. So send it on to me at Box 131, Selah, Washington. REMEMBER I am giving a nice Coin to anyone sending me in drawings to go with the oddities.

Well this month we find in the birthday of two of our greatest Presidents, George Washington, (the fellow who is on the 25¢ piece), and Abraham Lincoln, (the fellow pictured on the one cent piece). And thinking of both George and Abe, and their honesty toward others, I picked this as my "Thought of the Month" "Friendship is the Key that unlocks the shackels of distrust". Keep the letters coming, See you next month.

Dave

The Crown & Taler

THE MEETING PLACE FOR COLLECTORS AND DEALERS OF FOREIGN COINS

VOLUME 1, No. 1 — BRONX, NEW YORK — JANUARY 15, 1956

INTRODUCTION

I would like to take this opportunity to say "hello" and introduce you to THE CROWN AND TALER.

In deciding to publish THE CROWN AND TALER it was not my intention to place another paper on the market, just to add to the quantity of the existing fine numismatic publications. In THE CROWN AND TALER, I believe I have a new and necessary product, a monthly publication to serve the needs of collectors and dealers of foreign coins for a common meeting place. Such a meeting place is now lacking. Letters from many collectors and dealers have borne out this belief.

As this is a new publication there are bound to be certain omissions and items left to be desired, in time, and with your help, I hope to correct all defects. Any additions and suggestions shall be appreciated.

Original plans called for THE CROWN AND TALER to be printed on newsprint, but just before publication it was decided to print the paper on coated stock in order to present fine, illustrated articles, which are so necessary for a publication of this type, and to issue a paper which you will be proud to keep for future reference without fear of early deterioration.

I hope you enjoy this first issue and the others that are to follow. May we continue to meet for many years to come through the pages of THE CROWN AND TALER.

HISTORICAL SIDELIGHTS COINS OF THE ROMAN EMPIRE

By James A. Brown

The history of the Roman Empire runs for 320 years from 29 B.C. to 491 A.D. It began with Augustus after whom the month of August is named and who succeeded Julius Ceaser who was stabbed and ended with Lasatus who was beheaded. Its history was mostly that of violence and it began and ended with homicide. Some Emperors were such cruel despots they were disposed of by the Proteian Guard (which compares to the police force of the present day), and their cousin states and public works were totally obliterated to destroy even the memory of their monstrosities.

The Empire gradually deteriorated due to the excesses of usurpers and Emperors alike until 491 A.D. when successive waves of conquerers and invaders, the Vandals, the Barbarians and others disintegrated, destroyed and looted Rome as it was known then. Later arose the Holy Roman Empire and with the popular appeal of Christianity came the Catholic word and the reign of the Popes.

It is interesting to note that without the coins left to posterity by the buried dead, and they did inturn their coins in their graves in urns, we would have little knowledge of many of the rulers and phases of history of the Emperors of Rome. Even so there are two or three of whom no known coin portraits exist or haven't been found, although commemorative events are known of these rulers.

To the collector of Roman coins of the Empire, the deterioration of the coinage can easily be traced from the beginning to the end, for the coinage was debased in later years by succeeding Emperors. The artistic handywork also is not as evident in later years as at the beginning of the Empire and in many cases these early dates were really works of art and are beautifully executed as to contour and detail and depiction of mythological scenes. The workmanship was of the highest artistry and skill considering the ancient methods of engraving clay tablets and pressing them together on molten metal.

The buyer of higher priced Roman coins best keep a sharp eye out for spurious replicas of popular coins, for they are many, and some are obviously fake such as a bronze coin for which the only known kind is in gold.

Coin pieces of all the Emperors in any denomination is a wonderful history of Rome and is in itself an artistic group which will enhance any collection or gallary in a local display at a library, museum or public building.

SOUTH AFRICAN MINT REPORTS ON PROOF COIN SETS

Gold Sovereigns were struck from 1923 to 1932. Gold Half-sovereigns were struck from 1923 to 1926 both these 22 carat gold coins had the "St. George and the Dragon" design on the reverse side). The ten-coin sets listed below, therfore comprised the Sovereign, Half-sovereign (both gold), the Half-crown, the Florin, the Shilling, the Sixpence, the Threepence (all five are silver), the Penny, the Half-penny, and the Farthing (all three are bronze). The eight coin sets and the two gold pieces. In 1947 the Crown became a new South African denomination, therefore the nine coin sets are the eight aforementioned coins plus the new Crown. From 1953 in addition to the nine coin sets and the eleven coin sets (includes one and one-half pound gold coins), a two coin set consisting of the two gold coins was also issued:

1923—655 ten coin sets and 747 eight coin sets.
1924 and 1925—No sets issued.
1926—16 eight coin sets
1927, 1928, and 1929—No sets issued.
1930—14 eight coin sets
1931—62 eight coin sets
1932—12 eight coin sets
1933—29 eight coin sets
1934—24 eight coin sets
1935—29 eight coin sets
1936—49 eight coin sets
1937—116 eight coin sets
1938—44 eight coin sets
1939—30 eight coin sets
1940, 1941, 1942—No sets issued
1943—104 eight coin sets
1944—150 eight coin sets
1945—150 eight coin sets
1946—150 eight coin sets
1947—2,600 nine coin sets, and separately 2,000 proofcrowns
1948—1,120 nine crown sets
1949—900 nine coin sets
1950—500 nine coin sets
1951—2,000 nine coin sets
1952—12,000 eleven coin sets, 1,000 two coin sets and 2,000 nine coin sets
1953—3,000 eleven coin sets, 1,000 two coin sets, and 2,000 nine coin sets
1954—Approximately 1,500 eleven coin sets, 700 two coin sets, and 1,000 nine coin sets.

UNLIMITED

Vol. 1 [illegible] 1957 No. 1

An Open Letter to all Numismatists

This is introducing "COINS Unlimited, the brainchild of Bill and Chris Johns, and we hope the enjoyment and value you receive from it will be equal to the contentment we have had in bringing it to you.

Bill, of course, is the guiding light in this enterprise. He is 20, a printer by trade, I am 28, and when our three little ones aren't demanding attention, a numismatist. We are both, proudly, members of A. N. A. and charter members of GREATER HOUSTON COIN CLUB. In collecting, Bill's specialty is uncirculated Lincolns and nickels, while I have started my birth-year set. (Incidentally, have you noticed the price of the '28 Hawaiian Commemorative Half?" I've just given up hope.) Bill is on the Board of Governors of our coin club and I am serving my second year as secretary-treasurer and having a big time.

We fondly hope we can work COINS Unlimited into the largest numismatic publication in the country. It will be a long, hard pull but it will be worth all our efforts. We both believe our advertising rates are not out of line.

Subscription solicitations have been going out since June. The first issue of 2000 copies will be sent to the people subscribing by mailing time and the balance will be mailed to numismatists over the U. S. and Canada. Naturally, we hope there will be very few sample copies left over next month ! !

Feel free to send us little items of interest; we'll welcome them all and try to get them into print. Also, any of you that write, listen to this: If you'd like we can work out a deal with you—advertising space in trade for your articles. Coin club news is most welcome.

You know, it's kind of hard to write an open letter to people you've never seen, especially since my kin-people have to write to my mother to find out what's with us. It would be easier to sit down with each of you and tell you our plans for this publication and how much we will appreciate your help and co-operation, and especially your subscriptions and ads.

For those of you who do not want to take on the display ads, we recommend the classified section. The 1 heads, For Sale, Wanted to Buy, Trade and Stamp Collecting, should cut down on confusion and help all to find exactly the part that suits him best.

That's all for now. See you next month.

Chris

AROUND THE WORLD IN COINS

[illegible] was probably that established by Gyges in Lydia [illegible] and the end of the 6th century B.C. for the minting of gold, silver and electrum, an alloy of gold and silver. Silver was coined in the island of Aegina soon afterwards. The art of coining was introduced by the Greeks into Italy and other countries bordering on the Mediterranean and into Persia and India. Subsequently the Romans and the fourteenth century of modern minting, coining originated independently in China at a [illegible] earlier than in the western world, and spread from China to Japan and Korea.

In Britain gold and silver were coined before the arrival of the Romans and after the Norman Conquest the number of mints increased to about 70, many [illegible] was vested. Contract Advertising

The NUMISMATIC ADVERTISER seeks contract advertising to commence with our fourth issue or any subsequent issue. We offer contracts for 13 insertions at a discount of 15 per cent from our regular rates, and contracts for 26 insertions at a discount of 25 per cent from our regular rates which appear elsewhere on this page. Contracts for 13 insertions may be for consecutive issues, every 2nd issue, or every 4th issue. Contracts for 26 insertions may be for consecutive issues or for every 2nd issue. On contract advertising specific positions in our paper—other than our front page — may be bought. This will be on a first come, first served basis with the provision that where requests for the same position are received in the same mail from two advertisers, preference will be given to an advertiser who bought space in our first three issues. Any date space may be contracted for.

COIN CLUBS

We will still endeavor to send free sample copies of the Numismatic Advertiser to all your members if you will send us your membership list.

First Subscriber Is Earl W. Batten, Salem, Virginia

Even as we go to press with our first issue, hundreds of subscriptions have poured in to Box 59. Ahead of all the others by a period of about one hour was the subscription of Mr. Earl W. Batten of Salem, Virginia.

For being the first subscriber, Mr. Batten has been awarded a lifetime subscription to the NUMISMATIC ADVERTISER.

Mr. Batten, 44, is a civil engineer, and has been a coin collector for fifteen years. He heard of our proposed publication from his friend, Mr. L. S. Blankenau (a partner in the Ace Coin & Stamp Co. of Roanoke, Virginia), and promptly sent in his subscription.

Our thanks go to Mr. Batten and to all the other early subscribers. You've been so kind we wish we could give you ALL lifetime subscriptions, but our grocerymen keeps shaking his head and pointing to his overdue bill.

Classified Advertising

Originally we did not plan to run classified ads, but so many people have inquired about them that, beginning with our second issue, we will run classified ads on the following basis:

Minimum charge for one insertion is $2.00 for which 25 words are allowed. Additional words 6c each.

THE SAME COPY can be run for 13 consecutive weeks for 20.00 (plus 20c per word for all words over 25).

THE SAME COPY can be run for 26 consecutive weeks for $18.00 (plus 20c per word for all words over 25) Ads run at the above rates for 13 or 26 weeks cannot be changed.

There is not enough profit in a classified ad to cover cost of bookkeeping, mailing statements, etc. so we must ask that payment accompany advertising copy on all classified ads without exception.

Thanks A Million!

To more than seventy (70) advertisers who sent us copy for our first issue!

To more than three hundred (300) collectors who subscribed—sight unseen—to our paper before the first issue went to press!

To more than two hundred (200) collectors and dealers who wrote us notes of encouragement and advice

To several dozen coin club secretaries who sent us membership lists.

To several thousand collectors who sent us requests for sample copies.

To the printers, the typists, and all the people who did the tedious and tiresome work of compiling 5,000 names and getting this first issue in the mail.

To all of these—and to you who are reading this first issue—we say thanks a million. You have confirmed our faith in the future of numismatics and our belief that there is no nicer group of people than coin collectors.

We are particularly happy that so many of you have commented on the need for a WEEKLY paper such as ours. With the rapidly changing coin prices, the advantage of a weekly paper is obvious. If you send us an advertisement on Friday the customer should be reading it on the following Friday.

One of the biggest problems we have had is an advertising. With a weekly paper there is not time to correspond concerning an ad so it is important that we be given specific instructions as to the amount of space, etc. when the ad is submitted. Also, please don't try to crowd in more copy than the space will accommodate.

Again, thanks a million! WATCH US GROW! But even better than that: HELP US GROW!

- THE CENTINEL -

Vol. 0 No. 0 MT. PROSPECT, ILLINOIS August 15, 1959

OUR CALLING CARD

As the nation's income increases and the demands on our time grow less, it is natural that some of this extra time and money is spent on recreation in the form of hobbies. Here we are concerned with only one, numismatics.

With the number of serious coin collectors growing by thousands, it follows that there must be sufficient media through which collectors and dealers may contact each other.

At this point we would like to introduce THE CENTINEL, the newest periodical for coin collectors.

We realize THE CENTINEL is not the first publication of its kind, and with the vastly increased interest in coin collecting, it most likely will not be the last. However, we do feel that THE CENTINEL has a number of advantages over the existing publications.

We have purposely made THE CENTINEL in booklet form. This we hope will facilitate ease of reading and allow the busy collector to carry it with him. With the collector in mind, we have made our classified rates as low as our costs permit [see inside]. We ENCOURAGE classified advertising, for this is the best way for one collector to contact others throughout the country; the end product being stimulated interest for all.

From the standpoint of our display advertisers there are also direct advantages. The smaller size of THE CENTINEL enables us to offer the prestige and increased advertising value of a full page ad at a cost far below that of other publications. You will note that THE CENTINEL is printed on paper of somewhat better quality than newsprint. The greater whiteness and opacity will assure you of an all around outstanding advertisement.

All of our advertisers will be interested to know that THE CENTINEL is not going to be content to build its circulation gradually on a pay as you go basis. Beginning with our first issue we are sparing no expense to solicit subscribers. We plan a very large coast to coast mailing in order to guarantee our advertisers of excellent coverage. This introduction alone is being read by approximately 5000. THE CENTINEL will be published semi-monthly; the first edition going forward September 1st. The size will be entirely up to you.

We aspire to make THE CENTINEL the best in its field, but we must have your help. Your comments, criticisms, and recommendations will be greatly appreciated.

Classified Advertising

We have noticed a trend in other publications to make the rates governing classified ads so involved that it takes a mathamatician to determine what such advertising actually costs. We have tried to state our rates as simply as possible. There are no minimum charges, and our terms apply to every issue. As an added service we charge our subscribers only for the ad itself; the name and address are printed at no charge.

If you are an active collector who enjoys advertising frequently, we think you will find THE CENTINEL more economical than any other publication.

Coin Clubs

ALL COIN CLUBS ARE INVITED TO SEND US A MEMBERSHIP LIST SO THAT WE MAY FURNISH EACH MEMBER WITH A FREE SAMPLE COPY OF THE CENTINEL.

THE CENTRY

POSTMASTER: Form 3547 Requested

"Guardian of the Best in Numismatics"

VOL. 1 NO. 3 MT. PROSPECT, ILLINOIS OCT. 5, 1959

Don't Be Confused

The publication you are now reading was previously called The Centinel. Henceforth we will be known as THE CENTRY. This does not indicate any change in ownership, policy, or purpose; only the name has been changed.

We have been advised that the Central States Numismatic Society has, for several years, published a periodical under the name "Sentinel". In deference to the CSNS, and in order to maintain good will throughout the numismatic fraternity, we felt this action was necessary and appropriate. We trust our readers will concur in our judgement.

Subscriptions & Classified Ads

We have noticed that several of our classified advertisers have not yet subscribed to THE CENTRY. For the benefit of these and future advertisers, we would like to point out that subscribers' names and addresses are printed free. Therefore, a subscriber need advertise only every six weeks to realize a savings approximately equal to the price of a years subscription.

Good Reports

Many of our classified and display advertisers have reported excellent response to their ads. Space does not permit the publishing of all these letters, but we want to thank all who wrote for taking time to do so.

New Features

You will notice that none of our new columns appear in this edition. This is simply because we received no material. As we explained, the material for these columns must come from our readers. We hope everyone will take part in the next issue.

See You At Beloit

Don't forget the annual convention of the Beloit, Wisconsin Coin Club to be held on October 11th in the Student Union Building on the Beloit College campus. We'll be looking for you.

SUBSCRIPTIONS

In order to obtain new subscribers we have conceived a plan whereby you can do us a favor and also earn yourself a substantial commission.

When a new subscriber sends in your name along with his subscription, you will be paid a 30% cash commission or a 50% commission payable in advertising during the following month. You will be given a tally of your account on the 15th of each month. All you have to do is tell us how you want to be paid.

Did You Know

The famous Flying Eagle on our first small cent first appeared on the reverse of the Gobrecht dollar.

Coin Talk Magazine

VOLUME 1 DECEMBER, 1959 NUMBER 1

Let's Get Acquainted . . .

As you will undoubtedly realize this is a new publication in the coin world. The idea for this publication has just dawned in the mind of your editor but a few years. We are going and going big. We feel there is plenty of room in the numismatic publication field for another publication which will boost the entire "family" of collectors.

We make it no secret to compete with other publications in the field. We do, however, feel there is enough news and room for it be printed. We will strive to give you the sort of publication you deserve, the kind which you can contribute to your very own.

There is so very much we have to learn. There are many obstacles in the path to be overcome. Any help and advice concerning how and can give to us will either be in print a convention, meeting or letter is gratefully received. We expect mistakes to occur but they will be corrected quickly and completely.

We intend to print as much news of coins and collectors as we can get. We will be happy to publish any coin news, club news, personal information stories with pictures of any interesting collectors and whatever space will permit. We will run columns of fascinating coins, curious letters from subscribers, whether good or bad and try in every way to give you a publication in which you can have active participation.

This publication was conceived by your editor and Mechanical manager. We are Charles Moody, Jr., and Chester Rabe. We are both employed by the local newspaper as journeymen printers. I, Charles Moody, Jr., have been in printing for 14 years, having worked in both newspapers and job shops throughout the country. I began collecting coins some seven years ago, however a self-styled dealer and dealer for 1 year, before serve my training on what fields I have learned in both fields. Mr. Chester Rabe has been in printing for 37 years, having worked in both kinds of

FRANKLY SPEAKING FRANK GOLDBERGER . . .

Today we come into your home and observe. Tomorrow we shall be in your office. Next week in the crowded hands and day's mail. It is inevitable. It is a must and soon a bit about us at COIN NEWS and what we hope to do for you.

COIN NEWS is being published by a coin collector who told that is that ever changing market that there is a place for a coin advertising paper. Having been in the publishing field for a number of years I know that the cost of printing weekly and one has a large amount of contracts is very costly and that it is better to start a publication such as this every other week until bona contracts are made, the if we desire to become a weekly and to this end we are dedicated.

COIN NEWS will give you, our advertisers, a market place to sell your coins at a very low rate which is printed elsewhere on this page plus a very large circulation. This issue has a print order of 7,500 copies and on up to date information we have 5,000 subscribers. Each issue we send out you will find our rate of only the 25 words to be sold below any paper with our circulation. Also, you can run any 25 word classified ad two times for only $1.00.

Any paper needs subscribers and we are also going all out to make a subscription to the COIN NEWS as reasonable as possible by giving you as free classified ads with each subscription and the total cost of this is only $2.00.

Our MOTTO: "For quick action at a low cost use the all new COIN NEWS."

Now about it now, will you give us a chance to enter your homes with our first regular paper on APRIL 29 at A Trial? If the answer is yes you will send us your ads and subscription today.

REMEMBER, A NEXT ISSUE WILL HAVE A PRINT ORDER OF 7500

Single Copy 15c — The Collector's Host From Coast To Coast — $1.50 Per Year

VOL. 1 — JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA, OCTOBER, 1960 — No. 5

GOLD COINS

By SALVERT E. TISWELL
A.N.A. 10250
Waco, Texas

Despite the legal status of gold coins, and despite the circular issued by the Federal Reserve Banks calling attention to the fact that all United States Gold coins (except the 1933 twenty dollar pieces) are considered collectors items, and should be offered on the numismatic market rather than sent to the mint, several thousand dollars worth of U. S. gold coins are annually melted down. Melted down during the fiscal year 1959 at U. S. mints totaled a fraction under 62¢ ounces—largely at San Francisco.

In that the United States and the free nations set-up had pegged gold at thirty-five dollars an ounce, Uncle Sam stands to benefit fifteen dollars per ounce on her outstanding gold coinage is melted down and placed in "gold storage."

P. S.—I liked the lay out of the last issue of the Dixie Coin News. More power to your Mullis.

You are doing a good job in your part of the country.

A.N.A. Growth Is Phenomenal Rise

Membership in the American Numismatic Assn. is growing by leaps and bounds—General Secretary Lewis M. Reagan reviewed hold a hundred applications at the Boston convention city.

Figures for the net membership gain presented in Reagan's convention report speak for themselves:

1950-54, 20%—gain, 11.7 per cent.
1954-55, 1945—gain, 13.2 per cent.
1955-56, 1295—gain, 12.4 per cent.
1956-57, 1628—gain, 14.4 per cent.
1957-58, 1929—gain, 15.2 per cent.
1958-59, 1642—gain, 12.9 per cent.
1959-60, 2000—gain, 17.3 per cent.

TEXAN HITS AT BIG ROLL CRAZE

"We must continue to make a study of the coins that we collect, and be students of them and not be content to lend our interest solely to the "roll craze" said Dr. T. E. Butler, Temple, Texas, as he spoke to members of the Waco Service Center.

Dr. Butler spoke on the subject "An Unusual Look at United States Coins."

Atlanta Has Large Group At Boston Meet

True Southern hospitality — the kind that will be in store for A.N.A. members next year—was in evidence everywhere at the 69th annual convention in Boston.

A delegation of 14 Atlanta Coin Club members — the host organization for the 1961 convention — was present in Boston, headed by George Mill Todd, its president, to study convention details to insure a smooth — running, top - flight meeting.

The Georgia collectors have already started preliminary plans, not the hotel, the Atlanta Biltmore, and have their preconvention machinery already in motion.

Novel and colorful giant Georgia peach posters were in evidence at the Boston Statler-Hilton. As a promise of things to come, sugary confections in the form of fruity peaches were distributed by the 1961 hosts.

THE COLONIAL NEWSLETTER

P. O. BOX 114 WAYLAND, MASS.

Vol. 2 APRIL, 1961 No. 2

On the advice of our supporters we have established subscriptions for this pamphlet. The present rate is $5 per year, but will be reduced when possible. Those who contribute articles will receive the newsletter free and we hope to figure out some way to make an adjustment to those who have generously contributed both money and articles in the past.

Due to the relative costs and potential increase in circulation, the plates now used will be photo engraved. I hope the quality will be acceptable.

We are continually in need of articles and write-ups. Your comments are always welcome.

A. D. Hoch, Editor

LETTERS

I see that I have mislabeled one of the pictures on the plate in the January issue of The Colonial Newsletter. The upper left coin captioned "Ryder No. 12(M)" should be "Ryder No. 12(O)". While 12-M is a known variety, the 12(O) designation is more accurate here since this photograph shows the obverse found with the Reverse "O" pictured below it.

NEW LISTING OF CONNECTICUT COPPERS NOW AVAILABLE

It was good to read in the last "Newsletter" that memorandum from Richard Picker pointing out five different die combinations that were omitted from "State Coinage of Connecticut", as well as another variety that was erroneously described by H. C. Miller. Examples of all these varieties may be seen at ANS, except 33(21)-EE of 1787. The latter, together with 33(21)-k(4), were originally described in J. M. Richardson's article, "Varieties of Connecticut Cents", which was published in "Numismatic Review", Vol. 3 (1946), P. 5. Unfortunately the illustrations of these two combinations on Plate I were transposed, so halftone No. 2 should be No. 3 and vice versa.

Since 1920 there have been many more changes to Miller than Picker's memo indicated. Other new combinations have been discovered in the intervening years, and several more have been disapproved, as for example the unique 8-0(1) of 1786. It now appears that this obv. 8 with its curious legend, UCTORI: CONNNEC:, is is simply a double striking of obv. 5(4). The unique discovery specimen of obv. 8 was illustrated on the Miller plate, but the present whereabouts of the coin is unknown. In spite of published information, the current edition of "Guidebook of United States Coins" has added Miller's same halftone to Yeoman's well known catalogue, and priced the only example of this doublestrike at $8.00 in Good, and $19.00 in Fine condition.

In the forty years that have elapsed since Miller, it is quite significant to note that there are only two dies which remain unedited. The one is rev. Z(25) of 1787 which we hope will be described and illustrated in the next issue of "Newsletter". The other is rev C of 1786, which is known from only a single combination, 4(1)-C. Concerning it, Miller wrote, "Mr. Crosby gives this combination, but no specimen of it has been located." Fortunately, W. H. Breen has verified the existence of this variety and made pencil rubbings of it, but its present location is likewise unrecorded. His original manuscript description of unpublished rev. C of 1786 is as follows:

> "Branch is distinctive, all upper leaves disconnected, others practically so. Note fold of drapery over shield. Some parallels of latitude extend down to the denticles. Letter B touches the shield; colon and date very close."

The writer has recently finished a revised list of all known varieties of Connecticut coppers in an attempt to incorporate those various and sundry discoveries that have accumulated in the series since Miller. In this new listing are included the pieces muled by two Connecticut re-

NUMISMATIC TIMES and TRENDS

VOLUME 1, NUMBER 1 | JANUARY 10, 1961 | SINGLE COPY—20c

COMPLETE MARKET REPORTS

The Market Section...

At the Outset . . .

The greatest moving factors today in the coin market consist of rumors, tips and whims, without a statistical back-up of any sort.

This is a lamentable situation which the TIMES hopes to do away with through consistant and accurate market reporting.

The TIMES market section will be bringing scientifically accumulated and analyzed data —trends and trend projections along with up-to-the-minute reporting of market transactions and prices paid at the time of publication—so that the investor can determine for himself the right moves to make.

Using data supplied by the TIMES, there should be no reason for anyone buying,

Judd Confirms Pattern 'Find'

In a letter to the TIMES, Dr. J. Hewitt Judd, the renowned pattern authority and author of United States Patterns, Experimental and Trial Pieces, stated that the 1871 piece in question will definitely be included in his next edition of the exhaustive work on patterns.

Dr. Judd's letter read as follows:

Dear Mr. Pierce:

The piece which Mr. Rose has in one that I did not have listed. The 1871 series were not differentiated as to 13 and 22 stars until we began to study them. We will list that (piece) in our new edition.

Dr. Judd states further:

The Adult Hobby

TIMES BRINGS NEW FORMAT TO MOST FINANCIALLY SOUND HOBBY

Coin collecting is by far the most financially sound hobby known today. The world of coin collectors is not only protected by the original face value guarantee behind each and every collection, but by a growing mass demand for coins served by an international network of dealers and publications. Notuntil the coming of the TIMES has the coin market (see market section) been so accurately analyzed.

Collector Knows

The TIMES market section will help every collector to be sharper in his buying. His purchasing dollar will go farther. He will be more in a position to enjoy serious pursuit of his collecting.

With the assistance of carefully compiled charts and price listings offered in the TIMES, market section, the collector will know which coins are truly promising investments, which coins are earmarked for speculation and which coins are slow movers.

The Adult Hobby

Other hobbiests, be they collectors of stamps, buttons of rare design, match-book covers or antiques, miss out on the protection of face value. But the coin collector can rightfully consider himself an investor.

A collector, who each year puts away an uncirculated roll of each denomination and mint, pays only face value in the year of mintage. The passing of each year after adds value over and above his guaranteed face value.

Regardless of the market outlook, the coin collector is

Pilot Issues Light the Way

TIMES Staff Expert

A selected list of collectors and dealers received TIMES pilot issues as a final step before publication for nationwide circulation. From the more than expected response, our staff was able to shape the TIMES to the specific needs of the numismatic field.

Changes and additions were made with each succeeding pilot issue in response to comments from some of the foremost authorities in the coin collectors' field.

Now with confidence, we of the TIMES staff believe we are offering the only publication that is rounded out to best cover all the needs of all branches of the numismatic field.

Predominantly, everyone who received pilot issues was of the opinion that the TIMES would be the one newspaper that would give them a true picture of the current values of their coins.

With the conclusive results of the pilot issue ventures at hand, the first edition of Numismatic Times and Trends has been put to press.

New Pattern Discovered!

Breen-Judd-Schuman Confirm Find

New York City (Special to the TIMES)—Recently purchased at an auction, the illustrated pattern was catalogued as an AW 1123 (Judd 1145) Longacre design. Examination showed that the above pattern was not catalogued at all, in that 13 rather than 22 stars appear in the flag field on the obverse. Details on page 10

CAB'S COIN COLLECTOR

CURRENCY AND TOKENS

VOL. 1 AUGUST 15, 1961 NO. 1

MOTTO

Not On All Currency

It will probably be another eight years before the motto "In God We Trust" appears on all our currency. Henry J. Holtzclaw, Director of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, advised reporters that the delay is a matter of saving jobs for the pressmen who print the bills.

Holtzclaw gave the explanation to reporters after President Kennedy had received a letter from John H. Shembel of Pittsburgh, asking why the motto hasn't been imprinted on all currency as required by law. Mr. Holtzclaw also stated that the motto appears only on about fifty per cent of the nations one dollar bills.

The law prescribing the motto, contains a provision that it will be printed on currency only as fast as conversion is made by the bureau to new high speed presses which require special dies and plates. The conversion to the new presses will be continued over a period of about eight years to avoid laying off pressmen.

Mr. Holtzclaw said the new presses increase the output of each pressman by 370 per cent, and if the entire printing operation of the bureau were converted to high-speed presses at once, nearly 1,000 employees would be out of jobs.

The Roosevelt Dime

The dime, or ten cent piece, was authorized by the Act of April 2, 1792. It contains 34.722 grains of silver and 3.858 grains of copper, giving it a total weight of 38.58 grains, and it is thusly our lightest and smallest diameter coin being minted.

The Roosevelt dime was designed by John R. Sinnock and the initials JS are located below the neck and just to the left of the date. At the time the coins were first minted, the rumor that the initials stood for Joseph Stalin, was widespread. Because of the repeated explanation that the initials were those of the designer, John Sinnock is likely the most widely known of the designers of our currently minted coins.

The obverse of the coin bears a portrait

Editorial

The other day, while reading a question and answer column in a nationally circulated magazine, I noticed a question written by a person who stated he had just started collecting coins and wanted to know where to write to obtain new coins from the government.

The magazine, one which is of the current events type, advised the writer --"Proof sets of 1961 coins are available from the Superintendent, U. S. Mint, Philadelphia 30, Pa. A set --half dollar, quarter, dime, nickel and cent -- costs $2.10. When ordering the coins, send a cashier's check, certified personal check or a U. S. postal money order. After the mints supply is exhausted, sets may be obtained from coin dealers."

While the service is commendable, it is not complete and it makes an implication, obviously unintended, that the mint's supply must be exhausted before proofs may be obtained from dealers. It does not advise that mint sets may also be purchased by contacting the Treasurer of the United States, Cash Division, or that the same coins may be obtained earlier, if desired, from most dealers.

Obviously there are thousands who are potential new collectors, and need only some information and a little impetus. From what source are these things to come? Surely anyone engaged in the pursuit of numismatics can make some contribution, and not only create interest in those not engaged in the hobby, but also provide full and accurate information for the questions of beginners.

Many of our smaller towns do not have coin clubs, but if each collector will talk about his hobby, to individuals and to groups, much interest can be developed. Where coin clubs do exist, why not advertise such by having posters made and placed in locations where they are bound to catch the public's eye. Banks should be an excellent spot for locating the posters, and undoubtedly most, if not all, of them would be glad to co-operate. Surely many new collectors would be enlisted, and the enrollment of the clubs would increase accordingly.

The METROPOLITAN NUMISMATIC JOURNAL

EDITED BY WALTER BREEN

The Metropolitan Numismatic Journal, copyright 1961 by Metropolitan Coin Company, is published bi-monthly by Metropolitan Coin Company, 3012 Joshua Road, Lafayette Hill, Pa. Subscription: $3 per year, 50¢ per copy. Subscription address: .....3012 Joshua Road, Lafayette Hill, Pa. Editorial address: .....Walter Breen, 1205 Peralta Ave., Berkeley 6, Calif.

Issue No. 1 May - June, 1961

A NEW SERVICE TO ADVANCED COLLECTORS

You now hold in your hands the first issue of a new publication explicitly intended for you, the advanced collector. By this phrase we mean any collector who (within the general field of Americana) is beyond the roll, bag, proof set and/or commemorative stage; who is mature enough in attitude and orientation to read other things in coin publications besides advertisements; whose interest in coins, in short, goes beyond the How Much Is It Worth stagnation. Not so specialized as Colonial Newsletter, nor so foreign-and-ancient—oriented as most ANS publications, nor yet so inveterately commercial as the coin newspapers, Metropolitan Numismatic Journal welcomes articles and notes on any phase of American numismatics. Material by Dr. George Fuld and other eminent authorities is already lined up. We also not only welcome but request letters of comment; any of general interest will be printed. Send along your unanswered questions and problem coins; subsequent issues will contain a regular column of replies and identifications. (We cannot do free appraisals, however; and if you do send coins, please include postage and registry fees for their return.) We hope MNJ will please you.

Comments: Previously 'Coin Press' Numismatic Times & Trends' and Perhaps Various Other Periodicals Sold to Krause Publications

You are now reading the first issue of The David Laties Newsletter. Our intention is to come out every month, in spite of the difficulties beesetting everyone who tries to be punctual. We plan to publish at least one serious article in each issue, devoted to some aspect of the English coinage. This month we have a short piece by Mr. Walter McIntyre which explores some aspects of English pennies. Next month will feature a fine article by Walter Breen, who is well known for his scholarly numismatic research.

You will also find, every month, an unusually varied offering of English coins. Our customers are a very diverse group of people from all 50 states except Hawaii, of all occupations including that of coin dealer, and of many different collecting preferences. We have managed to satisfy almost all of them, which gives us great pride.

Up to November, only about six customers had ever returned coins they had ordered, out of the thousands of packages we sent during the year. This was an excellent record, since many dealers whose business is transacted mostly by mail have to put up with a return rate of 20% or higher. A few weeks ago five packages were returned in one day, all containing 1953 mint sets whose original plastic holders had broken open in transit. The postmarks indicated that they had all been mailed the same day, about two weeks before. We were extremely perplexed until we realized that a cold spell had descended upon Otteville that very day. Some experimentation, involving the use of the refrigerator, convinced us -- the extreme cold had made the plastic holders very brittle, and when they were even slightly jarred they shattered like glass. We sought a new system of packaging and ended up buying two cartons of foam rubber, which we used to stuff the mailing boxes before inserting the mint sets. The object was to prevent the sets from moving inside the boxes and also to cushion them against rough handling by the Post Office. So far, this method seems to be successful.

Incidentally, why do collectors prefer mint-sealed coronation sets? I suppose this controversy, as in the case of U. S. proof sets, will never be resolved to anyone's satisfaction, since some collectors seem to feel better if their coins have never been touched by human hands, because this makes sure that the coins

COIN SHORTAGE

Government officials see that the coin shortage will reach the critical stage within the next two or three years. This is based on the assumption that the demand will continue for coins at an incredible rate. It is one of the worst shortages in this nations history. Of the 55 billion coins manufactured by the government since 1792, about 44 billion have been minted in the past 25 years. Production of coins has been stepped up in the last few years and it will reach close to 4.1 billion pieces by the end of next June.

The mints at Philadelphia and Denver are operating at near capacity. Both mints have three shifts and are working 5 days a week.

Some people believe that the vending machines are taking most of the coins. The vending machine companies say their business has not cause the shortage.

There is another belief that the coins are in the hands of collectors. The number of coin collectors has been estimated between 8 and 12 million. Coin collecting has been advertized as a good investment and speculators buy them by the rolls. Other enterprises that takes a lot of coins is the toll way system and opening of more banks because of the growing population.

Congress last Aug. 20th approprieted $30,000,000 to build a third mint as well as an addition to the one in Philadelphia.

HIJACK $13,000 IN SILVER

A team of robbers hijacked a truck, held its driver captive for almost two hours and got away with an estimated $13,000 in silver bars.

The driver was to deliver 75 bars of silver, weighing a total of 5,500 pounds to a Westcomel Lead Co. brench at 1300 W. 59th Chicago, ILLinois. The silver was being shipped from New Jessey.

Investigators believe that the theft may be an inside job and persons in Chicago and New Jersey who knew of the shipment were being checked by the FBI. Knowledge of the shipment is kept to as few persons as possible. Federal Bureau of Investigation agents entered the case because of interstate shipping.

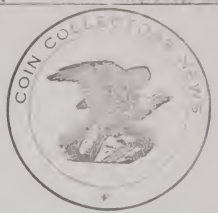

The truck driver Salvatore Lara, 4[illegible] was seven blocks from his destination when he stopped for a red light. An armed gun man motioned him out of the cab of the truck and took a blue [illegible].

A stocking cap was pulled over his face. He was then driven around for 2 hours and then released. He immediately reported the theft.

The large truck was found empty a short time later.

LaValle said at least three men were involved the one who held the gun on him, the one who drove the auto, and the one who drove the truck away. He said the driver man he saw clearly as being about 30 years old weighing at least 155 pounds and standing 5 feet 10 inches tall. He said the man wore a dark jacket.

The estimated value of the silver bars logged on its [illegible] time was a price of $20.64 a [illegible]

Profit In Coin Investing

A Current Appraisal Of A Fascinating Field

IN recent weeks much attention has been focused upon the numismatic field with ever widening interest in the opportunities to be found in coin investments. The background of this unique field is long and well understood by many; to the uninitiated it often appears somewhat complex. Coin collecting is a widely practiced hobby for a sizable number of people variously estimated from five to ten million, and ranges from collectors of rare pattern coins, gold coins, and other expensive examples to those in circulation seeking coins of different dates and mints from everyday change. Nets from which coins were produced are even collected when overlooked from the melting pot by the souvenir publicity. A variety of collectors' items and commemorative medals which frequently surmount coins in design and beauty, examples of craftmanship in engraving and manufacture. The range of the coin hobby is inexorable in its scope and people from every walk-of-life derive relaxation, pleasure, occupational therapy in the absorbing effort of completing a "perfect set of such coins."

Coins have been the objective of collector interest since the early days of our colonies and have been preserved for future generations. Coins have often been collected during times of economic turbulences for their inherent value as "hard money" and have occasionally disappeared as "bad or poor money drove out good or hard money." Coins dating back to antiquity are in many demand as collectors discover their existence and relate the coin to its historical setting.

Collecting coins both as a hobby and as a physical art involves creative labor. This together with scarcity instills value into the collected item whether it be small or large. This inherent value of a collection has been widely debated and constitutes a real informative problem to the heirs of vast collections including those responsible for its disposal, i.e. probate courts, trustees, and banks. While it is true that "beauty is in the eyes of the beholder" and likewise true that not all people appreciate the "beauty" in a coin. It is increasingly apparent collectors are not just a bunch of old coins and fewer and fewer are dismissed or stored in the ubiquitous cigar box.

The general public has oftentimes in the past been widely aware of the value of certain coins of unusual beauty or of extreme scarcity and intensive searching has been the result, e.g. 1913 Liberty nickel, 1909 VDB Lincoln cent. Large sums have been expended for collections of high quality or large volume. This fact has escaped observance until recently very few people realized the vastness of the interest in coins and the corresponding vastness of dollar sums invested in coins. Therefore it has been somewhat of a surprise to many with the advent of a modern convenience (the teletype system) it became obvious millions of dollars were being spent all over the country in this hobby. The American public collects many, many items from wads of junkal in Reid Haven automobile and it comes as a surprise to the experienced eye that numismatists annually pay in excess of $25 million just on books about coins.

Any avocation with this scope has a wide range of allied service enterprises and small fortunes have been consummated in such items as coin envelopes, coin holders, coin cleaning solutions, coin magnifying glasses, etc. A passing glance in any five-and-dime or corner drugstore will confirm that coin albums are a booming industry. It would seem obvious to even the casual observer that enterprising people have found unusual opportunities to improve and elevate the hobby and simultaneously enjoy the fruits of application of the profit motive in this field.

With the advent of modern highly technical electronic systems applied to coins dramatic and revolutionary changes began in the coin field. Rapid communications provided opportunity for even the smallest dealer in coins to supply customers with desirable coins without loss of business due to limited inventory. Pricing structure hampered by widely varying availability of coins almost instantaneously began to adjust as supply and demand functioned as a free market. Standardization of purchase and shipping methods appeared and renovation of methods of procurement and distribution became widespread, with resultant improvement in virtually every respect.

Of even more significant importance, hitherto hoopyard, data regarding availability of various coins became public knowledge and value of various coins began to adjust. This valuation has continued against the shifting background of change and will continue to adjust for the overall benefit of everyone concerned. Surprising and unexpected — albeit nonetheless true — a robust latent has appeared and shows all signs of becoming a vigorous adult.

In our modern economic system which is complex enough, attempting to invest wisely against the shifting background of monetary changes has made the most conservative policies of an earlier time extremely reckless in recent years. Likewise investment practices varied widely with the media selected and the individual involved. Selection of an investment is extremely important and must be accompanied by the determination of an appropriate program in order to be successful. The problem of selection is not easy and must take under consideration the same a n d goals of the individual in relation to the available investment funds. These principles are well understood in the securities market and in the commodities market. They also apply in the coin market.

The universal prerequisite for successful investment in any realm remains knowledge tempered with experience. Experience has proved that a favorable return in growth and income has long been available to those investing wisely in coins. The modus operandi has not been widely understood nor practiced. As statistical data from a thriving market becomes available for analysis and projection more and more understandable, the result will be the general public's intuitive understanding of the opportunities for the advisable course for investment action. Some readers will be interested primarily in growth rates, some in experimentation, others in marketing — all these factors will be subjected in statistical appraisal and major conclusions will result and certain old theories falsified, certain others disproved, and many never ones introduced.

Careful study will demonstrate the opportunities available. The past furnishes testimony to the fact that value is present and positions may be taken in coins. Why else would a roll of Lincoln cents minted in San Francisco in 1909 and never placed in circulation be available to a dealer to sell as singles? It required initially obtaining the coin, storage of the coin, preemptive transactions involving the intact roll, until at last in 1964 it is broken open and distributed one by one in these people who have been unable to find one in circulation or who are collecting coins in uncirculated condition. This is true of such scarce mint coins as the 1926 San Francisco Lincoln cent for example: therefore the reasons why people are collecting and storing 1956-K Lincoln cents in 1964, realizing that in 1984 someone will be collecting coins and will want a coin from a mint that is no longer in production and has not been in production since 1956. It is interesting to wonder "What will be pay for that coin in January, 1984?"

Pilot Edition

A Statement From the Publisher

This pilot issue of PACE is a "dry run" of a publication intended for the coin investment market. It will help introduce a new concept to coin investors — a newspaper covering your field of interest.

Time is a most important factor in coin investing. Our plan is to bring you the latest market information by many devices — h i g h electronic and human. Our intention is to publish weekend prices for beginning of the week reading taking into consideration that no activity takes place on the teletype network on Sundays; this day will be utilized to full advantage for delivering the publication through the mail.

The statistical section will be based upon information generated from the American Numismatics Exchange and their 182 coin dealers. The full explanation on this section, the Market Pace will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Our audience for PACE will be fourfold: coin investors, the people who actually buy coins; coin dealers who sell coins; coin advisors and brokers who guide and purchase coins for investors; and finally, for the financial and investment public interested in coins as a new commodity investment.

As a pilot edition, the issue is

SAFE KEEPING OF COIN COLLECTIONS URGED

Robberies continue to plague the hobby, producing a problem of how to enjoy the hobby with our collection handy and yet "out-fox" the would-be robber! No use ducking the issue . . . as it won't go away by our ignoring it. There are ample reports to convince us that there is a real problem. Books have a way of learning where collections are kept and frequently go directly to the right spot when breaking in to commit the theft. The reports should be adequate warning for us to refrain from telling anyone where we keep a collection at home, even if in a safe!

A better way for safe keeping of one's coin collection is through use of a safe deposit box in a bank vault. Only then can we possibly benefit from it becoming public knowledge that we collect coins, but keep them safely in a bank. This could work to one's advantage, avoiding break-ins with the accompanying property damage and possible bodily harm.

The burning question may well be; "How can I work with my coin collection if it's in a safe deposit box at a bank?" The logical answer involves something each collector should have anyway: An accurate

Paul Howes, V. P. of The America.. National Bank of Denver, shows MSCC Editor Barbara Rader the Safe Deposit boxes. 17 sizes are available.

Guard J. E. Garrett greets our Editor, as opening to the vault. The double-combinatio door weighs 18 tons! In addition to physical security, there's 6 million dollars of insurance protection.

inventory record listing each item, its condition, cost and valuation. This should be done regardless of where one keeps a collection since it is necessary for insurance claims involving fire or theft. Equally important, it can be used with collections in safe keeping at a bank. Such a record makes it practical for the collector to know which items are still needed and which items can be upgraded. Actual working with the collections can be done at the bank, or insurance can be obtained to protect the maximum amount to be taken home at one time. If "peace of mind" is worth a reasonable expense, we don't know a better way to enjoy one's collection.

Unfortunately, we coin collectors can't single-handedly eliminate the existence of thieves, but we can discourage the present rash of robberies by protecting ourselves from becoming victims of the thieves. If it became common knowledge that coin collectors don't keep valuable collections at home, but instead in safe deposit boxes in banks, there would be fewer burglaries reported in the news.

Practice what we preach? Yes! We recently investigated the idea of using safe deposit boxes in banks. We learned that the cost is reasonable, access is convenient, and there' private work areas available. If you are not making use of a safe deposit box, perhaps you'll consider the idea and become a customer at your bank as we did ours!

Colorado Springs Still Strong Contender For A.N.A. Home

"Coin Week" Activities Reach Peak

The Honorable John Love, Governor of Colorado, recently designated April 24 – May 1, 1965 as COIN WEEK in Colorado. Les Bloom, President of the Jefferson County Coin Club, is pictured below with several members of his club at the proclamation signing. Many clubs and individuals in our western states are planning exhibits and other numismatic activities in observance of COIN WEEK. This is an annual event sponsored by the American Numismatic Association.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

Everything? No. . . but a name is important! We've noticed folks having difficulty in remembering our rather long name "Mountain States COIN COLLECTOR" . . . and we've also received constructive criticism that we weren't including all of the "mountain states" either! So. . . looking objectively at the future and our long range plans, we've decided to promptly modify our name to "WESTERN COIN COLLECTOR". This doesn't mean that we're immediately expanding our original coverage area, but that we're better set to grow into full coverage of all of the western states in time. Our eventual objective is to cover from Kansas City or Omaha, west!

[redacted] OMAHA [redacted] make it [redacted] been made. [redacted] Colorado [redacted] way we [redacted] to be the real location for the A.N.A. Museum.

OMAHA HAS A [redacted] land, according to what we've heard from reliable sources. Attractions [redacted] election purported [redacted] notes can't ease nor solve the key problem. Hence the announcement of the [redacted] Omaha seems premature.

COLORADO SPRINGS has so much to offer that it's difficult for us natives to understand why the A.N.A. going anywhere else! It is a [redacted] beautiful city ideally situated near the center of the nation, with many attractions. [redacted] Pikes Peak, the cog railway [redacted] Garden of the Gods, the Royal Gorge with the world's highest [redacted] bridge, the Cave of the Winds, the colorful Cripple Creek area, the Cheyenne Mountain Zoo, Seven Falls, the U.S. Air Force Academy, the Broadmoor International Center, summer and winter sports, and so on. Located at the "foot of the Rockies", the weather is ideal, too. It all adds up to a wonderful place for collectors to visit and the A.N.A. staff to live! And it's readily accessable. . . by air (Continental, Braniff, Frontier and Central Air Lines), rail, bus or fine highways. Just as the United States Air Force looked over the U.S. for an ideal location and settled on Colorado Springs, so do we think A.N.A. can make a wise choice in headquartering there.

RALPH [redacted] TEAVER, a director of A.N.A. was asked by us as to qualifications of the Colorado Springs site. He said that over three acres of land have been offered, more than adequate for building, parking and even a picnic area, located within a few blocks of the new Antlers Hotel project now under construction near downtown Colorado Springs. Though he couldn't make a statement regarding final acceptance or rejection of Omaha, he agreed that Colorado Springs would be an ideal location and would still be considered a strong contender for the A. N. A. home.

VOL. II, NO. 29 | Pace Publications of Fort Worth Inc. Fort Worth, Texas | OCTOBER 8, 1965

Pace Under New Ownership

On August 27th, 1965, Mr. Elliot J. Cashden bought all of the assets of PACE from Space City Publications of Houston. All of the unexpired subscriptions will be fulfilled, and will run for the full term that they were originally supposed to plus the low extra copies necessary to make up for the period that PACE was not published every week. A corporation has been formed, Pace Publishing Co. of Fort Worth, Inc., and Cashden's interest in Pace has been exchanged for stock in the corporation.

PACE will be published on a weekly schedule in Fort Worth. The deadline for all news items and ads will be 5:30 PM every Wednesday. The paper will be printed Thursday evening, and mailed on Friday. This means that it will be in the hands of collectors and dealers no later than the first of the following week. This will give the readers the fastest service of any numismatic publication, with all of the latest up to the minute news and quotations. All of the subscribers will be current as dealers will not have to send in ads weeks before publication.

Although we know it is humanly impossible to make everyone happy, we will break our necks trying. This is YOUR paper, and any suggestions that you may have to improve our service to you will be appreciated. We will be happy to print 'letters to the editor' from any of our readers who have something to say. We will print all of the club news that is sent to us as well as announcements of shows and bourses. We will strive to bring you the finest coin news weekly and hope that they will be of service to all.

'Cashden's Coin Comments' will appear in each issue, and in the November 5th issue, the complete story of the Mexicana proof set Shows will be related by Cashden. Most of this story was written while Cashden was in jail in Mexico City, and some startling facts will be revealed. The managing editor of PACE is Mr. Tom Brown, who retired to that capacity in Houston for the past several months. He is very capable, and will do everything in his power to see that PACE is the best possible numismatic publication available.

The majority of readers and advertisers that were questioned seemed to prefer that PACE run the weekly bid and asked prices taken from the transactions over the various bid-type systems. We would like to point out, however, that these prices represent transactions between dealers, sometimes in great quantities and lots, and that the wholesale bid and asked prices sometimes have little relation to the retail selling prices. In most businesses there is usually quite a spread between the wholesale and retail price of an item, but the coin business seems to be an exception to the rule. Collectors must realize though, that if a dealer cannot make a profit, he cannot stay in business. Of course everyone wants to buy coins as reasonably as he can, but nobody should expect to buy at the dealers' wholesale prices. As in any business though, prices vary from dealer to dealer. Quality also may vary, and those buyers should be taken into consideration. PACE will not knowingly accept any advertisement of questionable material. We expect all advertised coins to be graded by Brown and Dunn standards. We also expect all of our advertisers to grant their customers a three day return privilege on any merchandise ordered though the mail. We also expect our readers to treat our advertisers fairly and not to return any ordered merchandise unjustly.

We will do our best to promote high ethics in the coin business, and we welcome your comments.

1965 New Zealand Coin Sets

1965 is the last year in which New Zealand coins will be issued under the pounds, shillings and pence system of currency. In 1967 New Zealand currency will change to the decimal system and the first issue of decimal coins will be made in that year

Souvenir sets of the 1965 minting of New Zealand coins have been ordered from the Royal Mint, London, and advance orders of these uncirculated coin sets are being accepted now by the New Zealand Treasury. Delivery to purchasers will be made in March/April 1966.

Each set will consist of seven coins in the following denominations: half-crown (2s.6d.), florin (2s0d.), shilling (1s.0d.), sixpence (6d.), threepence (3d.), penny (1d.), and halfpenny (½d.).

Three grades of coin sets will be available:

1. 25,000 Polished Specimen Sets. These will be struck from specially polished dies and extra care will be taken with the blanks. The coins will be removed from the presses and handled invidually. Extra care will be exercised in the final inspection. Price per set: $6.00 (U.S.), $6.50 (Canadian)

2. 75,000 Selected Proof-like Sets. These will be struck from new but unpolished dies, which will be replaced while still virtually unworn. Special treatment will be given to blanks and coins will be taken from the presses and handled individually. Price per set:

Bankers Coin Book

About 400,000 requests have been received for additional copies of the American Bankers Association's new question-and-answer booklet on new United States coins. The association mailed the 11-page booklet, "Facts About the New U. S. Coins," to each of its 10,000 member banks earlier this month.

The publication explains the elimination of silver in dimes and quarters and the reduction of the silver content in half dolars. It gives details on the composition of the new coins and explains how and when they will be minted and distributed.

Feds Foul Felons' Fences

Headlines of St. Louis, Chicago and Kansas City are concerned because authorities have become aware of their system of disposing of goods stolen throughout the Midwest.

It was partly for this reason that underworld representatives from the three cities were to have assembled in St. Louis. The meeting was canceled, however, when St. Louis police arrested four Chicagoans in the $100-a-day Presidential suite at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel.

Most stolen items, particularly jewelry, furs and coin collections, are "fenced" in the Chicago area. Some items are sent to Kansas City and Dallas. St. Louis is a collection point.

Lincoln Cent

By U.S. Treasury Dept.

When the Lincoln cent made its initial appearance in 1909, it marked a radical departure from accepted coinage, introducing as it did for the first time a portrait coin in the regular series. A strong feeling had prevailed against the use of portraits on the coins of the country but public sentiment stemming from the 100th anniversary celebration of Abraham Lincoln's birth proved stronger than the long-standing prejudice.

Change Considered

A change is being considered in the system, it was said, because federal and local authorities had been able to trace the movement of stolen goods.

The only person invited to participate in the formulation of the new design was Victor David Brenner. President Theodore Roosevelt was so impressed with the talents of this outstanding sculptor that Brenner was singled out by the President for the commission.

The splendid likeness of our 16th President on the obverse is an adaptation of a plaque Brenner executed several years prior which had come to the attention of President Roosevelt. In addition to prescribed elements — LIBERTY and the date — the motto IN GOD WE TRUST appeared for the first time on a coin of this denomination. Of interest is the fact that the

THE COIN MARKET REPORT 25c

JULY 15, 1965 — ISSUED ON THE 1st AND 15th EACH MONTH

Dealer Transaction Report

The prices shown in this Report are dealer to dealer prices and do not reflect the retail market. Retail prices probably will range from 20% to 40% higher.

MARKET SHOWS SIGNS OF SLIGHT UPTREND
by Clark Cochran
109 West Hutchinson
Little Rock, Arkansas

As a member of one of the major telotype circuits in the country I have observed during the past week one of the best weeks in some time in fact months as far as activity and some prices were concerned. Buying was at a faster pace than to quote a while, and selling was bringing reasonable prices in most cases.

As has been the case during the past ten months or so, the larger denominations are leading the way again. Halves and quarters were fairly active and dollars steady. Any declines were recorded for the most part in the small cents. No doubt the silver problem has had something to do with the trading in the larger cents, but there were indications during the past week that the investor-collector has returned to these items.

Seated items as the 40p small date cents and 1901-s nickels have showed again. Such items as these should prove to be real investment items at the low prices quoted during the past week on these low denomination cents. Although the price is above par, it is my opinion that this decline will not last much longer and this wide awake investor can really make some good buys at todays prices. The 1964 nickel is another item to decline sharply. In contrast to some of the past weeks when the Jeffersons held their own to some extent, this week saw many cents in this series take a downward plunge. The "key" 1950d was steady for the past week however giving indications that the series might not go much lower.

It is my opinion that the best change for profit taking lies in the Roosevelt series. During the past week they did not fall off as they have during some of the past weeks, however the prices are very very low for some of the less nonmega items in this series. The sets themselves are almost 20.00 off and anytime you can buy a nice BU set of almost any coin for less than 100.00 you have a real buy. Yet those Roosevelt sets were traded for as few as 65.00 during the past week.

One note worth mentioning here is the fact that during the past few months while some of the BU rolls have declined, the older type, material seems to be as hard to get as ever before. Even some of the key material such as the 1932d halves are very hard to buy along with such items as 1932d and a quarters, 1931d dimes. The same the collector is real set on the back because he has good sound items when he puts together some sets of older, good quality, items.

A LOOK AT THIS WEEK'S MARKET

Cents

for the most part all rolls down in this series.

1956 cent off now to 26.00

1954s cent off another dollar to 13.75.

1960p cent small date, down to the very low figure of 110.00.

1939d cent down to a very low 175.00.

Nickels

1941s down to 47.50

1942 off to 130.00.

1946s down very much to 85.00.

Dimes

This series not off as much to during the past weeks and for the most part only very slight drops. Almost all dates can be considered as on par with past week as rest.

Quarters

1944d off to 60.00.

1950d way down to 130.00 .

1950p seems to have some up slightly to 30.00.

Most other dates held their own.

Halves

1950p seems steady now at 154.00.

All other dates seem to have held their own as comparison to past months prices.

Proof Sets

Almost to the set the same as last week and week before.

1964 already now at 13.00.

OBSERVERS, ERRORS, AND RIDGS
by CLAUDE PITCH
COIN SHOP, HOTEL MARION

Dear people several months ago when Roger and Cleve asked me to write this little ole article, I felt that it would be a waste of time, but recently I got a letter from a young fellow in Adel, Iowa and I would like to quote a few words from Mr Dan Mark's letter. He says that my column has "awakened his incentive to look for more errors". He goes on to describe several more errors that he has found in circulation as the last few weeks. Apparently, we have gained a new fella collector. I would like to hear from more of you to suggest to errors you have found, however, I do not feel that it is necessary to call me long distance as Miss Chu-Fung of Soldiers, Arkansas, who did indeed take the time, trouble, and expense to call me long distance. Apparently, he has found a very fine error, so at least as far as I know, a Four-Leaf Clover and a copper penny(at times) are nouns that mean at that a coin is struck on!

My opinion, and it is just an opinion, is that almost all errors dated 1964 are worth much less than errors with any other date. The reason for this, of course is the mint. They are working seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day. Interesting enough, all of the 1964 errors that I have found stopped punches! double die, off center, ect I dated 1964 comes from the Denver mint. I would say very much for any of you to set me of any errors that you have from the Philadelphia mint! Talking with some of the mint employees from the Denver mint, I have found that the majority of the officials concerned about the amount of errors being released into circulation and this, of course, is the reason the 1964 mint errors are not worth as much as other errors. As to you Mr. Chu-Fung your copper nickel may in the future generations may be worth 3 figures or more.

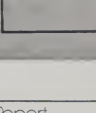

I can for the first time starting a mail bid auction in the COIN MARKET REPORT and included will be mint errors providing I can encourage up a few from you dear people! So please if any of you have any errors that you would like to sell please get in touch with me immediately. Send them to Claude Pitch, Coin Shop, Marion Hotel, Little Rock, Arkansas.

We will be looking for all of you at Mobile to say hello to you and all that sort of jazz.

A TIGHT VIEW ON COINS
by PAUL WHITMAN

A funny thing happened to me on the way to the Forum. I was stabbed. These words were spoken by Julius Caesar. Well, the same thing happened to my case. Mr. Luker called this morning and informed me my copy was due 4 days early. I was stabbed. So as a result of this and the 4th of July my column will be short.

Are you a true numismatist? We can't be without a Red Book (a Guide Book to United States Cents) The 1966 Red Book went on sale July 1. This book contains all of the latest price changes from the last year. To look at this book one would be amazed, it has improved remarkably from the first day it was issued, not only in size but in quality. It contains all of the montage figures, a grade guide, current prices, and

by Roger Luker

We think that now is the most opportune time to purchase coins due to price reductions, than at anytime in the past five or ten years. The enthusiasm in coin collecting is at an all time high with an ever increasing number of collectors being added each day. Recent scares, for various reasons, have caused Key rolls and singles to plunge to an unprecedented low. There is no doubt that if you take advantage of these low prices that you will earn a substantial profit on a relatively short perood of time. We strongly recommend the following purchases:

	Buy At
55P Dimes	62.50
42D Nickels unc.	135.00
44S Nickels unc.	90.00
51S Nickels unc.	230.00
58P Dimes unc.	70.00

It was only a short time ago that all of these rolls were a minimum of 25% above these figures. I know of no other business where you can purchase an item today with an additional 5,000 people each day as the future dimensus of what you have. Call on the profit wagon now and purchase some of these key rolls at these reduced prices. Remember the Rebs bill has been withdrawn and prices have only one way to go — up.

a history of each coin. So you can see that it would be well worth it to locate one at the nearest hobby shop.

There has still been no status change in the bill introduced by Senator Bible. So keep those letters rolling into Washington. The letters that have already been sent in seemed to be having a direct effect on Senator Bible and his bill.

Until next time, keep smiling. The most penny you receive might be a 9-5-V08.

Grading Your Clad Coins

Reprinted from "Coin Columns," by Lee Martin

Interpreting the amount of wear a coin has received is the most difficult phase in coin collecting. A coin can be a good or even extremely appealing coin at the mint, priced just for the grade of mint state.

The new coinage consists of coins minted into Uncirculated coins because the planchet is so hard, most of the coins are heavily struck. In this case "wear" doesn't come into play, but the slightly carbonized, flat planchet, has rather the See Saw mint impression on a rough metal background, which is not appealing. The luster is extremely dull, and relatively rough to grade as the grade a breast feather. They be lacking on new specimens.

Almost all grading books because their views on the silver coins and the 1776-D reverse, rather than the Memorial coins. In fact coins are known to be infinitely scattered by wear (more or less) and the grading of coins in relation to other coins of similar value.

The clad coins have forced us to use the new mint mark of pressure of the coin in the mint's dies, particularly very thin grades over the early 1940's. In my opinion, the new designs have the same "character" and short sets such as Lincoln cents and Roosevelt dimes, which are the most widely collected coins, are the most widely collected coins, are the most widely collected coins,

HOW THE COIN CONTEST WORKS

When we receive your subscription to "THE RESTRIKE" your card is put in our file is given a number.This number is in turn put into a drum and each month we select one number.If your number is drawn you are the winner.You have a chance to win each month and any number of times.

All subscribers who have coupons use them for free ads will find these on page # 2. Please attach one with each free ad.

Starting with our May issue of "THE RESTRIKE" we will charge the low rate of per paper from 8½ x 11 to 8 X 14. In our attempt as we will be changing to elite size type.We feel that elite size type will be more legible so it is easy to read.We will endeavor to keep our rates low by printing rates.

We have had a few inquiries as to why there is no postage on our paper.The reason for this is that our stamps are pre-canceled by the Post Office to save time in mailing the paper.It sometimes takes close examination of the stamp to see that it has been canceled. Some of you may be receiving your paper with the stamp [illegible] another part of the country.The reason is that even the Post Office Department is not always able to detect the [illegible] is to.

MEDALLIC MONTHLY

A PUBLICATION DEVOTED TO THE COLLECTOR OF TOKENS, MEDALS, WOODEN NICKELS AND RELATED ITEMS

VOLUME 1, No. 1 OCTOBER, 1967 MANDEVILLE, LA. PRICE 25¢

BEST OF '67

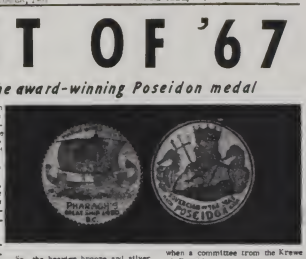

story behind the award-winning Poseidon medal

The Mardi Gras celebration in New Orleans this year was even more of a spectacle than in previous years, if one can imagine such a thing. It seemed that there were more parading groups and maskers than ever before, the season was longer, extending from New Year's Day right up to the actual date of Mardi Gras, Feb. 7. And, more of interest to the medal collector, about twice as many of these parading and masking groups issued their own medals, to be thrown to the crowds lining the parade routes.

To be more exact, the 1967 Mardi Gras season saw over 70 different types of aluminum medals thrown to the crowds. If one desires to count the varieties of finish, from plain aluminum to gold, purple, green, red or blue anodized types, the total is well over 100. But, speaking only of how many different designs were produced, and not going into these further varieties, we come up with a total of over 70 different. Some were cheaply produced, with nothing but plain lettering; some near the most intricate and involved artwork possible.

To encourage excellence in Mardi Gras medal design, and to provide recognition for the most talented of the designers, the Crescent City Coin Club, of New Orleans, set a precedent this year. They decided to give an award for the best Mardi Gras medal of the season! Out of over 70 different designs, they were to choose the very best. With the great number of medals produced, this was no easy task. Various qualifications were set up by the award committee.

The award was sponsored, in the first place, out of a sort of civic pride; every New Orleanian is vitally interested in the annual Mardi Gras celebration, famed the world over. So, in view of the public nature of the Mardi Gras festival as a spectacle for the populace, the award committee decided to judge only the publicly distributed medals — i.e., the aluminum specimens that were actually thrown from parades to the spectators.

So, the heavier bronze and silver medals which exist of most types were not considered. Likewise, the competition was open only to Mardi Gras organizations of the greater New Orleans area, as defined by the committee.

Thus, ground rules limited the scope of medals under consideration to include only the 1967 aluminum pieces thrown at parades in the New Orleans area, these being the medals of the most public interest. Both factors as originality of concept, execution of the design, and actual finished appearance of the medals were considered carefully by the committee.

Though the competition was keen, for the award had been announced well before Mardi Gras, it was no great surprise to most medal enthusiasts that the "Best of '67" award went to the Krewe of Poseidon. Looking at the illustrations on this page, most readers will conclude that it is, indeed, a very beautiful medal, with imagination, original concept, and superb execution by designer H. Alvin Sharpe (who else!). So, what goes on behind the scenes? How does one go about producing an award-winning design? What is the significance of this particular theme?

H. Alvin Sharpe, who designed the first Mardi Gras aluminum "doubloon" for the Rex organization in 1960, has been turning out medallic designs ever since, sometimes cutting his own dies by hand, without a preliminary sketch. So when a committee from the Krewe of Poseidon came to him in the early fall of 1966, seeking a medal which would be artistic, original, and appropriate to their organization, they soon knew that they had come to the right place.

Surprisingly, many of Sharpe's medal designs have never seen production, and are not generally known or generally available to the public. Sharpe is an artist in the true sense of the word. When he is not busy producing designs for commercial medal issues, Sharpe works on the hand-cut dies for which he is noted. As other artists do paintings, Sharpe cuts many dies simply for artistic satisfaction, not to order for anyone in particular, with the idea in mind that sometime, perhaps many years hence, there will be a commercial demand for the particular design he has created.

In the case of the Krewe of Poseidon, Sharpe had an idea that he had been kicking around for years, waiting for the right person or organization to utilize it in some commercial application. He wanted to produce a series of medals on the ships of history, an outline of man's progress on the seas.

It should be noted here that the Krewe of Poseidon is one of the many Mardi Gras organizations named after Greek Gods. This is an interesting aspect of the celebration which effectively combines Greek mythology with this Christian holiday. Of the major

HOWDY FOLKS!

THANK YOU FOR THE FINE LETTERS AND ORDERS FROM THE LAST ISSUE. WE'VE GOT A BIGGER LISTING THIS MONTH TO GO THROUGH. WE RECEIVED SOME MISTAKES IN PRICES QUOTED. WE LISTED SOME ABOVE BECAUSE OF THE MISTAKE.

THE ACTION ABOVE IS A TRUE EYE-OPENER AS WAS SOME OF UNDERSOLD THE STORE LAST SUNDAY DURING OUT 4TH HOT SIDE. ABOUT THE COUPON THAT DONE THE MISTAKE. IF YOU CAN FIND IT OUT, WE UNDERSOLD IT AT THE SAME PRICE WE LIST AS COUPON. IF YOUR TROUBLE BEING YOU'D LIKE MORE CITY, COME ON AND SEE US. WE HAVE MISTAKE AND BIGGER AGES IS INDICATED BY THE NUMBER OF LOTS OF MISTAKE.

THIS HAS BEEN A BUSY WEEK FOR COIN COLLECTORS. THE ENCOURAGEMENT HAS LATELY THE ATTRACTION ON THE 1969 S-MD COIN--WE CAN ALSO SEEM IT INTO THE COUNTRY. MORE AND PERHAPS. THE PRICE HAS BEEN LISTED BUT ALL COLLECTORS COULD. THIS COULD BE GOOD OR BAD FOR THE COLLECTING OF THE DOLLAR COINAGE COULD BE A GREATER INTEREST IN COLLECTING MONEY, MANY PROFESSIONALLY SCARCE WILL COINS COULD BE MINTED AGAIN WITH THE CHANGED DATE. MANY FEATURES MAY BE LOWERED IN A COINS AS TO WHOLE. DON'T BE SURE BEFORE WHAT SO WILL BE DONE AS TO WHAT DATES MAY BECOME MINTED, SOME CHANGES DATINGS COULD COME UP IN THE FUTURE. THE LATEST NEWS WE KNOW IS THAT THE TREASURY HAS FINALLY FOUND A WAY TO TELL THE MILLIONS OF DOLLAR BILLS THEY HAVE. I DON'T KNOW THE DETAILS YET BUT I HOPE I GET THE STORY.

THE LOWEST FORM OF VERMIN

IN MY BOOK IT'S THE LOUSE WHO USES A BUSINESS CARD TO PRINT HIS OWN BILLS AND CONTRACTS IN. THEY COME IN MANY DIFFERENT TYPES BUT NONE OF THEM ARE ANY GOOD FOR HONEST BUSINESS. THE STORY BEHIND IS A BRIEF DESCRIPTION BETWEEN THE BUYER + SELLER OF A COLLECTABLE ITEM. THE BOOKS ARE VERY MANY REFERENCE IN THE FORM OF PRICE, VALUATION, IDENTIFICATION, PURCHASES, TO PROTECTION + FULL. THE LOUSE, AS HAS BE AUTHORITY ITSELF, IS FOR THIS REASON TO MAKE A MARKET ABOVE "B-" (REWARDS TO HAVE AT /7% OR EXISTENCE).

THE STORY I TOLD ABOUT COINS IN DIFFERENT TYPES BUT THEY ALL HAVE TRICKS FROM THE BEGINNING. THE MAIN TYPE IS THE VERY PROUDLY DEALER WHO WILL SHOW AROUND THE COIN WITH HIS SHOW A GOOD LISTENER. BUT WILL NOT PURCHASE THE BUYER BUT, THEIR PRICE ARE RIGHT, BUT DEALS ARE MADE, FROM AND CAN, TO THE CUSTOMER. THIS TYPE IS ORDINARILY A DEALER PARTICULARLY OF ANTIQUITIES ITEM, BUT THE BUYER (THOUGH THE CAUSE IS CHANGED) BUY THE OTHER (NOT) DEPT.

Curator Asking For 'Treasure'

DR. W. W. Newcomb, director of the Texas Museum, has asked Texas Attorney General Crawford Martin to have concerned readers overseas promptly hotel in the state hunt for buried treasure on the antiques.

Newcomb said the articles are diminishing rapidly and should be in the hands of historians.

The treasure was rumored in late 1967 by a treasure-hunting firm, Platoro Limited of Vaduz, but, from the spot where a branch fails, probably a ruse, is considered as a forerunner in 1553 to the Texas coast.

Martin said he would act under a directive on Newcomb's request and his received recommendations of a three-man commission to make a full evaluation of the treasure's authenticity.

The famous treasure-hunting group reportedly hunted The Spanish vessels to using a highly sensitive metal detection device.

It was found in the sandbank, about one-half mile off the Padre Island coast, near the site of the wrecked Padilla. Texas coast.

The artifacts recovered by the group included much silver, mostly in the form of crude coins, and some gold. More valuable than the treasure's greater interest, since Landmarks comments, and to turn such pieces to the silver, and subsidiary to crude evaluation. According to the foreign a recent early 1.2 Spanish coins found on the Padre Island. A 1 Landmarks concern was recently said to a member of the Rockefeller family for $14,000.

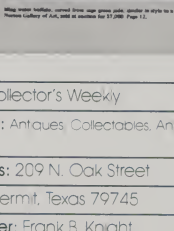

After being recovered from the floor of the Gulf of Mexico, the artifacts were taken to Indiana boy Austin, Texas land commissioner, negotiated for three rooms and the "treasure" is presently stored in an office in Austin. Sadler refused to the contents, in which are many artifacts along with rare uniform more of state lands.

The recovered artifacts have unleashed Sadler in pubmed controversy. Members of the Texas legislature criticized his findings with Platoro, and an embarrassing parliamentary amendment. At the same time the Travis County grand jury is investigating the circumstances surrounding Sadler's contract with Platoro and the manner in which that firm was granted a search permit. Sadler is expected to be indicted by the grand jury.

Platoro reportedly offered to have organized a team on the recovered artifacts with the State of Texas paying Platoro for 10 percent of the value and keeping the treasure. It made the offer after entering an agreement that prevented Platoro from removing Sadler's artifacts from the Padre Island vessels.

The vessel discovered by the Indiana group is believed to be one of 14 vessels driven into the coast of Padre Island in 1553. The ships were part of a treasure fleet that sailed in April of 1545 year from Vera Cruz.

The fleet was to leave for home in three years, included 20 ships. Three of them were wrecked with others carrying treasure and 500 persons.

Ming water buffalo, carved from rose green jade, similar in style to a piece in the Nott Collection, Norton Gallery of Art, sold at auction for $7,000. Page 12.

Glass

Premium Prices Paid

A SMALL but serious group of buyers paid premium prices for glass objects at Sandy's Assisted Art Glass auction held in Clairemont, Ohio.

Probably the only real surprise in the auction was the lack of price for Peach Blow glass objects. The low price is the only apparently "real bargain" for buyers. A signed Geisle shade was in a sandblasted floral brought only $75. A miniature was auctioned with a signed Geisle vase and went for $62. Two other sandblasted floral vases, both signed Geisle sold for $95 and $125.

The most active bidding surrounded the plated authentic Tiffany lamps. One example brought $1,700, a top vase $1,500, and a specimen $900.

An unsigned peach bowl, catalogued as Bennett but which the auctioneer suggested might possibly be Pitkin's Consolidated, sold for $40. A signed Fairy lamp base, one another matter, brought $450.

A honeycomb Alexandra pedestal candelabra was bored sold at $800. A signed Quezal vase with a gold iridescent Wisteria Pinwheel sprat of deepest coloring at $475.

The vase array of Tiffany offerings brought equally varying prices. A sterling silver peacock bottle, signed Tiffany & Co. 1870, sold for $1,000. A small compote, L.C.T. Favrile, at $775, and a long-stemmed bluish-gold iridescent vase, fully-signed, brought $,250.

The auction was the result in a estate conducted essentially by Sandy's Assisted Art Glass, Oakland, Ohio, and devoted exclusively to the sale of art glass. Buyers arrived regularly from as far as Oklahoma

THE FIRST ISSUE

Collectors Have New Publication

WEEK the premier began to roll the country quickly rushed off 75,000 copies of the COLLECTOR'S WEEKLY. The company would handle the news, the publisher, editor, circulation manager, and advertising director rumored to their typewriters to prepare for the big event.

The editor of antiques and collectibles had a new publication, and we intend it will be one of the best.

Whitney of then circulation manager, surveying the results of several months work said COLLECTOR'S WEEKLY had brought 1,700 a day new subscriptions to pass the first term, and 7,132 charter subscribers—distributors, dealers, and interested parties. The first person to subscribe was Steve Sanders of Kermit, Texas. Tex Ritter, the singing cowboy star, was the distributor of being the first lifetime subscriber.

There are subscribers in each of the 50 states who took advantage of the pre-publication offer to receive a year's issue of hobby and collector publications advertisements and was made up three issue.

The opportunity to be a charter subscriber is being extended for a limited time. The subscription price for the weekly issue is $4.00. Full details and a convenient order coupon may be found in this issue.

In addition to recent group by the 75,000-plus mail subscribers, COLLECTOR'S WEEKLY will simultaneously start with mail orders having distributed at shows and antique stores.

In addition to direct weekly distribution to subscribers, COLLECTOR'S WEEKLY will be available through many antique shops, hobby shops, coin stores, and newsstands throughout the United States and Canada. Many of these forward-looking merchants are offering COLLECTOR'S WEEKLY for sale effective with this issue.

How and then if your favorite store doesn't have COLLECTOR'S WEEKLY now you suggest that they check with him today or even over-the-counter sales plan.

The first issue, Volume 1, Number 1 carries a dateline of September 22. Printing and mailing over-runs on September 18 and 19.

Said Publisher Frank B. Knight: "We hope that delivery of COLLECTOR'S WEEKLY on this maiden edition no later than September 22. Speed of delivery has, however, with the postal system."

History

Fort Pitt Relives

FORT PITT Museum in Pittsburgh a Point State Park has been opened to the public. The museum became a series of 70 exhibits portraying an eventful period in the history of Fort Pitt and western Pennsylvania.

The museum is located precisely on the site of a bastion of the original Fort Pitt, and a in the form of the original fortress.

Fort Pitt was started by George Washington who was sent by Virginia to construct a fort at the confluence of the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, Virginia, at that time, claimed western Pennsylvania. Fort Pitt was built in 1759, however, years shortly after by the French who finished the fort and named it Fort Duquesne.

In 1755 an expedition under Gen. Edward Braddock was sent against Fort Duquesne but was defeated. A second British fortress got out to prairie, only 40 ft out of 1,764 men escaping. Three years later an expedition under Gen. John Forbes was successful. The fort was rebuilt, and named Fort Pitt after the British statesman. A small log settlement died, sprung up around a war named Pittsburgh.

The museum will be operated by the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission's Bureau of Museums. It will be open daily 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. weekdays and from noon to 4:30 p.m. Sundays.

FIRST TALLAHASSEE SHOW A HIT

Hugh Tinley talks to Don Swanson of Newsday's Astro City Coins. Swanson was one of dealers who came to the First Annual Tallahassee Coin Show.

Editor Jon Owen visits local dealer Lee Marvin and Jim Goulding at their table. Marvin is showing a set of numismatic

The summer of 1969 will be remembered as the summer of the collector. Neil Armstrong started man's first walk-on-by of space walks and matter and The Collector's Journal began its new life with the issue, a publication intended for the serious collector of coins, stamps, art and antiques. Both "ships" are two-seaters. Great crops which hopefully will lead to bigger and better things.

The Apollo 11 moon adventure was given fantastic coverage by the communications media and we here at The Collector's Journal hope to cover our fields just as completely. We have long believed that "in depth" coverage of communication, philatelic, art and antiques was lacking and we hope to fill the vacuum with this monthly.

Of course, being a monthly we can take the time necessary to cover a certain field or event with the three-spheres and research that a weekly cannot afford. We believe the contents of our initial issue will reflect this diligence.

As our name indicates, we are a paper for collectors—all collectors. Though we concentrate on the four "major" collecting areas, we do not intend to ignore the other hobbies such as bottles, antique guns, buttons, railroad memorabilia, etc.

Consolidation had a gauge full of old licensed plates and Grandma a basement full of totes. We're all collectors of something; it seems to be part of our human makeup. We're certain, therefore, that the reader will find his specialty somewhere in our pages.

If not, be sure and let us know. We'll start a collection of angry letters.

Philadelphia hosts the annual A.N.A. Convention August 12-16 at the Sheraton Hotel. They are anticipating a crowd of 25,000. Does 1 miss it?

Some of numismatic interest were exhibited in great variety. There was Lincoln pennies, Spanish cut-outs, German inflationary currency in addition to a valuable 1879 four dollar gold piece. One dealer had an ancient Chinese metal which drew much interest.

A local radio station, WMBM, did a remote broadcasting from the banquet, introducing guest and dealers. The Collector's Journal publishers and show sponsor, Hugh E. Turley, was also interviewed.

The success of the two-day show has prompted plans for another show the first week in January.

Three of the many exhibits and coin items displayed at the Tallahassee Coin Show. At left and right a 1879 four dollar piece; center a 1796 half dollar(top) at show in collection of Astro City Coins.

Fellow dealer, and collector Dr. John Simpson, Jr., stops by the table of Orlando's Dino Bindolff to discuss coin transactions.
